7 MONTHS' SCHOOL PROVIDED IN BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

First Major Measure in Program of Governor Wins After Three-Hour Discussion of Details by Ballot of 183 to 3.

LONGER SESSIONS UP TO COUNTIES

Local Taxes May Be Used to Provide Longer Terms, Higher Salaries for Teaching Staffs.

The Georgia house of representatives voted yesterday for the state to pay the expense of operating common schools of Georgia for seven months of the year.

First of the major measures embraced in the program of Governor Rivers, the bill passed, 183 to 3, at the end of a three-hour discussion which hinged chiefly on technical details of administering the new law.

The 1937 appropriations bill, passed by the house and labeled "urgent" by the administration, headed into a possible delay when the senate voted to increase the allocation to the Department of Agriculture.

The agricultural amendment, a house leader said, is sure to meet opposition when the bill is referred back to the lower branch and may require three or four days for settlement.

An appropriations bill is needed in order to open the state treasury to the various departments for operating expenses. Rivers has adopted a policy of spending no treasury funds until given an appropriations measure.

Differences between the house and the senate over the biennial appropriation bill in 1935 resulted in a deadlock which prevented passage of a money bill.

Passage of the seven-month school bill brought from Representative Booth, of Barrow county, who voted for the measure, the remark:

"This administration is starting out just like the last one—steam-rolling administration measures."

Power Firm Appeals New Ruling on TVA

Georgia Power Company-TVA litigation went back to the courts again yesterday, the power company appealing to the fifth circuit court of appeals a ruling by Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood refusing dismissal of litigation previously ruled on by Judge Samuel Shibley.

If Judge Underwood had granted the dismissal, an injunction against the TVA granted by Federal Judge Gore in Tennessee barring the TVA from continuing construction in Tennessee and Georgia would have remained in effect.

The judge refused the dismissal and issued an injunction requested by TVA barring the Georgia Power Company from enforcing the Tennessee injunction in Georgia.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A $20,000,000 damage suit—the largest in Connecticut history—was filed in superior court today against the estate of Percy A. Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, and Louis P. Cheney, Connecticut industrialist.

The suit was brought by the National Bondholders' Corporation of New York and Aaron Davis and Henry K. Burns, of Greenwich, Conn. They charged the late Rockefeller and Cheney had defrauded the assets of National Surety Company of New York by $15,000,000 through "reckless and unlawful management."

3 DIVISIONS ADDED BY HIGHWAY BOARD

Return Announced to 6 Groups, as in Effect Before Talmadge Rule.

The State Highway Board announced last night it had decided to increase its divisions throughout the state from three to six, thus "returning" to the same basis as was in effect prior to the Talmadge regime.

New division points would be located at Augusta, Columbus and Savannah and the present East Point division would be transferred to Rome. The other two division points will remain at Macon and Fitzgerald.

Regarding the transfer of division headquarters from East Point, board members said only 10 persons in the present highway personnel there would be moved. The 125 workers at the East Point shops will remain.

The offices at Rome, Savannah and Augusta are re-establishments of offices formerly located there. The Columbus office is entirely new.

Chairman W. L. Miller, of the highway board, said:

Cobb Says: Women Are Inconsistent

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 28. Sometimes women are almost as inconsistent as men—which is a frightful indictment to bring against any sex.

As a boy, I remember being severely lectured by a lady for robbing birds' nests—a lady whose nodding hat was crowned with at least four stuffed meadowlarks.

A few years ago, I saw women prominent in humane movements and good deeds, like that woman of the Scriptures who was called "foras"—saw these women wearing the smug and forbidden aigrettes of the snowy heron, even though they must have known that each pitiable feathered wisp meant a cruel murder and a brood of fledglings left to starve. I still see these aigrettes being worn—against the law of the land and the greater law of common humanity.

And only lately, at a meeting to forward the prevention of cruelty to dumb beasts, I saw women swathed to their armpits in furs of mink and otter. Seemingly they had forgotten that the animals whose pelts they wore had died in steel traps by slow degrees of infinite torture. Or maybe they didn't care.

EUROPEAN GALES TAKE LIVES OF 56

18 Trawlers, 3 Sailing Vessels and Other Craft Are Sunk By Storm.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The winter's most violent gales roared across western Europe from Scandinavia to Gibraltar today, swelling the roster of storm dead to at least 56.

Heavy rains caused threats of serious floods.

Portugal was hard hit as the storm, described by meteorologists as the worst in 50 years, wrecked the harbor of Leixoes.

Toll of the tempest included 18 trawlers, three sailing vessels, a steamer, a motor vessel and numerous smaller craft in European waters.

Two trawlers were believed to have carried 46 men to their deaths in the North sea yesterday after distress signals had been flashed. Neither the French trawler Lirette with 30 men aboard, nor the British Amethyst was believed to have kept aloft in the gale and heavy seas.

DEATH DEMANDED FOR 17 BOLSHEVICS

Radek, One of Accused, Asked for Heads of 16 Others Last August.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky demanded death tonight for 17 confessed conspirators to overthrow the government—the same fate which Defendant Karl Radek urged in his newspaper writings for 16 other conspirators who pleaded guilty and were shot last August.

Requiring five hours to summarize the government's charges that Radek and his colleagues sought by traitorous acts to involve Russia in war with Germany and Japan, overthrow the government and restore capitalism, Vishinsky turned suddenly to the aged man of letters.

"Radek thought he was writing about Zinoviev and Kamenev (two of the former defendants). He made a small mistake which this trial corrects. He wrote about himself."

RAMSPECK'S BILL ON POSTMASTERS PASSED BY HOUSE

Members Vote an End to Patronage After Earlier Rebellion in Which Democrats and Republicans United Against Measure

ATLANTA DEFEATS ALL AMENDMENTS

G. O. P. Attacks Proposal as One Designed to Keep Present Holders of Positions for Life.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The house balked at the Robert Ramspeck bill to place all postmasters under the classified civil service, finally passing it tonight after a tumultuous seven-hour session. It was passed without a record vote.

It was one of those sessions when anything might happen—and a good many things did. The lights went out for a while, members went out for dinner and came back in plenty of time to vote, and a couple found time to go home and don dinner jackets for evening engagements.

Finally, after putting a series of amendments in the measure, the house reversed itself to knock them all out and pass the bill without even a record vote. It goes to the senate.

12 NAVAL PLANES ON WAY TO HAWAII

Ships Pass Half-Way Mark in the Greatest Mass Hop Over Water.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP) The navy's 12 newest sky cruisers winged westward tonight bent on a new record—the greatest non-stop overwater massed air flight in history—Honolulu.

With 1,125 nautical miles of open sea traversed, Lieutenant commander William M. McBride radioed at 8:30 p. m. (10:35 a. m., Atlanta time), "We've passed the half-way mark with no trouble."

Two miles high, in trim squadron formation, they pointed to and started for the Hawaiian islands at 8:35 a. m. Pacific time. There were 80 men aboard, seven in some ships and six in others.

Ships in Formation.

It took an hour and 38 minutes for Lieutenant Commander William H. McDade to get his ships into formation from the time the first took off the harbor waters at 6:57 a. m. The twelfth ship was under way at 7:56. In widening circles they flew to the rendezvous, 10,000 feet above Pearl Harbor, 2,553 miles from here.

Canada New Deal Declared Invalid

Privy Council Upholds Law Providing Aid to Farmers and Trade Act.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Canadian legislation for unemployment insurance, minimum wages, limitation of working hours and regulation of marketing was declared unconstitutional today.

The ruling came from the judicial committee of the privy council, highest judicial body in the empire. The committee upheld measures to regulate some trade practices and to help indebted farmers.

The legislation was adopted by the Canadian parliament in 1934 and 1935, when the Conservative government of Premier R. B. Bennett was in office.

Only two of the laws, however, have been put into effect—that to aid farmers, which was upheld, and that giving farmers the right to combine in regulating production and marketing of their products, which was declared invalid.

Provisions of Act.

The unemployment and social insurance act which was held unconstitutional provided for establishment of a system throughout Canada whereby the individual, the employer and the government all would contribute to a fund to help the worker if he lost employment.

In ruling against the act, the privy council's committee remarked:

"Assuming the dominion has collected a fund through taxation, it by no means follows that any legislation disposing of it is necessarily within dominion competence."

Hull Will Draft Plans For New Anti-War Act

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull will begin immediately preparation of a new permanent neutrality act.

He made this announcement today after a conference with President Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large.

The secretary of state declined to outline his own views on what form the neutrality legislation should take. He said he wanted to discuss it first with leaders of the house and senate foreign affairs committees.

Congressional leaders understand that the State Department favors neutrality legislation granting the President wider discretion in embargoing arms than the present neutrality act.

EMPLOYEE IS SHOT IN BAKERY HOLDUP

Two Unmasked Bandits Obtain Between $700 and $1,000, Escape in Auto.

An employee of the Lee Baking Company, at 211 Moreland avenue, N. E., was shot in the right leg at about 10:30 o'clock last night when two armed, unmasked bandits invaded a small shipping room and escaped with between $700 and $1,000 in cash.

The wounded man, Merrett R. Ray, of 214 Poplar circle, night foreman, was shot as he ran into an oven room adjoining the shipping room, where drivers turn in receipts of the day. He was admitted to Georgia Baptist hospital.

The bandits escaped in a waiting automobile, parked outside the plant. One of the bandits was recognized as a former employee, police were told. S. L. Shadburn, of 984 Waverly way, N. E., night shipping clerk, told police the bandits covered him with weapons and demanded cash.

As one held a pistol on him, the other rifled the cash register. The plant was full of workers at the time of the holdup.

Police were told the bandits were seen loitering near the plant about an hour before the holdup. Cecil Stockton, who sells soft drinks in the plant, said the men bought drinks

DEVASTATED CITIES BEGIN VAST TASK OF REHABILITATION

Waters Receding at Cincinnati and Louisville, But Days Will Pass Before River Returns to Its Banks; Rain Is Due.

ARMY, CIVILIANS STRENGTHEN LEVEE

110 Stranded in Spillway, Cling to Tree Tops and Wait Rescue Boats That Are Hampered By Ice.

By the Associated Press.

The nation's record flood crept forward last night toward the next danger area—levees between Cairo, Ill., and Memphis on the Mississippi—as army and civilian corps piled sandbags and gumbo mud on 300 miles of setback levee walls in a desperate effort to avert disaster.

The Ohio river—a lake 50 miles wide in places from Pittsburgh to Cairo—eased its pressure along its upper stretch.

At Cincinnati the waters slowly began to recede.

Louisville, Ky., still was largely inundated, but the crest was past and headed for isolated Paducah.

The death tolls rose to 335. Nearly a million continued homeless in 11 states. Damage mounted above $400,000,000.

Rain, Snow Forecast.

Forecasts of more rain and snow along the Ohio river came from weather forecasters, but they added the cheering note the precipitation would not affect flood conditions.

Days will pass before the Ohio is back in its channel at Cincinnati and Louisville but already rehabilitation was begun. Appalling stories, as yet unrealized, were in store for residents of vast sections.

Cairo, its women and children mostly evacuated, settled down behind a three-foot bulkhead atop its 80-foot seawall and waited for the 62-foot crest on the Ohio predicted for Sunday or Monday.

Most pathetic was the plight of 6,000 farmers and fishermen driven from the 131,000-acre tract in the Bird's Point floodway on the Mississippi. They fled—mostly on foot—over rutted roads covered with six or eight feet of water.

Alabama Votes Repeal Of State Whisky Law

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Alabama legislature passed today a bill repealing the state's prohibition laws in counties voting "wet" in an election set for March 10.

The measure, sent to the two houses today by a conference committee, now goes to Governor Bibb Graves for signature, veto or executive amendment. Many observers expect him to return it with an amendment making repeal contingent upon a state-wide referendum.

Final action on the repeal came this afternoon in the senate, which approved it, 20 to 13. The house adopted the conference measure, 59 to 33, earlier.

Under terms of the bill, counties which vote dry would retain the stringent prohibition laws, which ban beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol. "Wet" counties would be given state liquor stores, with beer being sold by private dealers.

PERKINS ASKS BILL REVIVING NRA AIMS

Secretary Proposes Hour,
Wage and Bargaining Measure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins tonight said she would ask congress "within a day or two" to enact legislation designed to achieve maximum hour, minimum wage, child labor and collective bargaining goals of the invalidated NRA.

The proposed legislation would supplement emergency authority for the Labor Department to cope with serious industrial disputes such as the current General Motors strike which Miss Perkins demanded yesterday. She asked Speaker Bankhead and Senate Majority Leader Robinson to expedite a measure giving her department power to investigate labor trouble and subpoena records, correspondence and participants.

Speaker Bankhead observed "it is a rather novel request," adding he knew of no plans to offer such a bill. Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, said he felt "friendly" toward Miss Perkins' proposal and added that he saw "no reason why the Labor Department should not have authority to investigate strikes."

COLLANDER, Ont., Jan. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Dionne quintuplets, 32 months old today, romped in subzero weather after Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse finished his monthly job of weighing and measuring them. The doctor was particularly pleased that Marie, smallest of the five since birth, was catching up with her sisters. She gained a full inch in the last month, while the others picked up fractions.

Marie stands 33 1/2 inches tall compared with the 34 1/4 of the tallest, Yvonne and Annette. Marie gained one pound in weight, Yvonne one and Emilie a half pound.

Sandwich Towers.
The popularity of sandwiches with both young and old has been known for centuries, but their popularity gains new life every time someone discovers a new sandwich spread, or invents a new form or shape in which to serve them. Sandwich towers owe their popularity not only to their attractive shapes, but also to the deliciousness gained by combining several of our most common sandwich fillings. Their ease of preparation is also much in their favor. Most every housewife will have all the necessary ingredients on her pantry shelves. Sandwich towers are just the thing to serve unexpected guests, or for an afternoon tea or Sunday evening repast.

It is hardly necessary to mention the goodness everyone has enjoyed in the sandwiches made from such old-time favorites as peanut butter, and the many types of jams, jellies and preserves. Each of these popular sandwich spreads is sufficiently delicious in itself, but when several are combined such as is the case in sandwich towers—the result is deliciousness to the nth degree.

Sandwich Towers.
Sliced brown and white bread.
Fillings.
Peanut butter.
Cottage cheese.
Jam—peach, pineapple, pear.
Fruit Preserves—strawberry, raspberry, loganberry.
Jelly—currant, apple, grape.
Suggested Garnishes.
Pickles, radish roses, deviled eggs.

From the sliced bread cut rounds graduating in size from about 4 inches diameter to 1 inch diameter. Allow 5 or 6 rounds for each tower sandwich. It will add to the attractiveness of the towers if white bread rounds are alternated with the brown bread rounds. Spread each layer with one of the fillings and stack them in towers. Top with a cherry and garnish. Serve at once with coffee.

Steak and Onion Sandwiches.
Slice Bermuda onions thin and separate into rings. Soak in milk for 10 minutes, then dredge in flour. Fry in deep hot fat until browned, then drain on absorbent paper. Meanwhile, spread the unpeeled side of the bread with butter which has been blended with prepared mustard. Use 1 tablespoon of mustard for each 1-2 cup of butter.

Broil tenderloin steaks on each side until tender. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Keep the steaks and onions hot in hot covered dishes until all ingredients are ready to assemble.

To serve, top each piece of buttered toast with a tenderloin, then heap with fried onions.

Cheese Filling for Sandwiches.
To package of cream cheese, mashed, add 2 tablespoons of avocado pulp, 1 tablespoon of cream, 5 ripe olives chopped fine, 2 tablespoons nuts chopped, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and salt to taste. Spread on rounds or crescents of white, buttered bread and chill.

Oyster Sandwiches.
Place a raw oyster and a strip of partially broiled bacon on each round of bread. Toast these open sandwiches in the broiler until they are lightly browned. Serve hot with mayonnaise. Use as appetizers or in large quantities as the main dish for Sunday night supper.

Ribbon Sandwich Loaf.
Remove crusts from day-old loaf of white and whole wheat bread. Cut 2

CITY'S FIRE FIGHTERS DEFENDED BY PARKER

Chief Replies to Criticism
Made by National Underwriters' Engineer.

Vigorous defense of the fire department was made yesterday by Fire Chief O. J. Parker, in reply to criticism by G. L. Swan, engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Parker said firemen are trained in operation of fire-fighting equipment and that more equipment is needed to properly protect the city against recurrence of such disastrous fires as the Cable Piano Company building. "Of course, some of the men were not able to answer Swan's questions," the chief said. "It would take a college graduate to answer some of them."

Swan said the men in the department "lacked knowledge."

However, it was understood that increased training will be provided for members of the department. Parker said most of the men in the department are young and capable but that approximately six are scheduled to be examined physically and asked to take their pensions if they fail in the examination.

THE COOK'S NOTE BOOK

By RUTH CHAMBERS.

Among the minor heartbreaks of the homemaker's life is the experience of watching a carefully prepared and really delicious dinner slowly lose its goodness and become soggy and drab while waiting for guests who don't arrive on time. Only the woman who takes pride in her meals can appreciate how tragic that is!

And it's almost as bad when special care has been given the family dinner, only to have the head of the household telephone to say he is delayed.

TODAY'S DINNER

Candied Sweet Potatoes
Buttered Green Beans
Jellied Tomato Salad
Banana Cream Pie

at the office but will be along later. Please keep dinner hot for him! You're so disappointed you want to sit down and cry!

But there are ways to avoid these causes for weeping. If the guests you have invited are rather indefinite about the time of their arrival—perhaps they have a long way to come, or possible events may delay them—be ready to meet the situation by preparing a dinner which can cheerfully wait without losing any of its savor. Then your own frame of mind will be serene and an hour or two of waiting won't hurt your feelings any more than it harms the dinner.

For Festive Meals.
"But what dishes, good enough for company, can be treated so casually?" perhaps you are asking. "Of course I can warm up a stew for members of the family with the tardy habit. But what shall I serve to my guests?"

I am giving you today some suggestions for festive dishes which won't be spoiled by a little longer cooking period than usual, or which can be kept hot without losing their appetite appeal. Also I'm including some suggestions for main dishes on the family meal which can be kept waiting with no harm done.

Of course the balance of the meal must also be the kind which doesn't require immediate service. For dessert, pie is a good choice. Those fancy refrigerator desserts are also helpful, for they can be prepared well ahead of time and are ready whenever you want them. Aspic salads stay fresh for an indefinite period. Vegetables baked in a casserole can usually stand a little extra cooking and can easily be kept hot.

Meat and vegetables cooked in a casserole form a good main dish for a family meal which is apt to be delayed. And in fact there are casserole dishes, such as pork chops en casserole described below, which would be appreciated by your most "special" guests.

Pork Chops en Casserole.
Six thick chops, 1 can corn, 1 egg, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 green pepper, 1 cup celery, 1 small onion, 3 tablespoons flour, salt, 1 cup milk. Chop celery, onion and green pepper. Mix and fry to a golden brown in butter. Add well-beaten egg, corn and bread crumbs. Season with salt and pepper. Make a thick cream sauce by blending flour in fat in which vegetables were browned and adding milk. Place chops which have been browned on both sides, in a buttered baking dish. Spread corn mixture over the top and pour cream sauce over all. Bake in a slow oven 45 minutes.

Stuffed Meat Loaf.
One pound ground lamb, 1 pound ground pork, 1 pound ground beef, salt, pepper, 2 eggs, whole ripe olives for garnish.

Stuffing.
Six cups toasted white bread cubes, 1-2 cup finely cut dry onion, 1-2 cup finely sliced ripe olives, 1-2 cup seedless raisins—rinsed and drained, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, salt, pepper, 1-4 teaspoon sage, 1 cup soup stock or 1 cup water.

Sauce.
Three tablespoons oil, 1-2 cup finely cut celery, 1-4 cup finely cut onion, 1-3-4 cups tomato sauce, 1-2 cup sliced ripe olives (medium slices).

Have your retailer grind meats together. Combine with salt, pepper, and eggs, and blend thoroughly. Pat into a thin square (about 1-2 inch thick) on oiled paper. Cover with stuffing which has been blended thoroughly, and roll up. Stick a row of whole ripe olives down center and sides of loaf. Place in oiled pan and brush top and sides with oil. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1-3-4 to 2 hours. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

To make sauce: Heat oil in frying pan, add celery and onion, and fry until vegetables are wilted. Add tomato sauce and olives (and salt if desired), and cook for about 5 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Baked Ham and Pineapple.
Have a slice of ham 3 or 4 inches thick cut from the center. Rub the surface with dry mustard. Stick with cloves. Pour over the ham the juice from a can of pineapple. Cover and cook in a moderate oven from 2 to 3 hours, according to the thickness of the ham. Forty-five minutes before ready to serve, put in the pineapple slices and let them cook until they are tender and brown. Serve the ham in the center of a platter with the pineapple slices in a border around it.

Spanish Rice with Meat.
Two cups cooked rice, 1 tablespoon fat, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 pound steak cut into 1-2 inch cubes, 1 cup cooked celery, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1-2 cups hot water.

Brown the meat in the fat. Combine ingredients. Cook in buttered oven dish in moderate oven for 1-2 hours.

Liver and Rice en Casserole.

Wash one pound of liver in cold water, then cut in narrow strips and brown these in bacon fat, cover with hot water or stock, and allow to simmer about one hour. Thicken the liquid to make a thin gravy, using 1 tablespoon of flour to each cup of liquid. Add 1-4 cup cooked chopped mushrooms and 1-4 cup cooked chopped carrots. Arrange alternate layers of rice and liver in a casserole, with rice as the top layer. Pour the gravy over all. Cover and bake in a moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes. Garnish with finely minced parsley and serve.

HAPEVILLE ELECTION CONTESTED BY KEMP

J. C. Brown, Forrest C. Gerrard and Roscoe Mullins. If the quo warranto action is granted, they will be ousted and the office declared vacant.

Kemp, filing suit as a citizen, alleges the December 1 election was not legally conducted, that the polls were kept open longer than specified by law and that 34 voters were illegally qualified. He also charges that two election managers, Mrs. Ida Bobo and Mrs. W. H. Tucker, were not freeholders and therefore not qualified to fill their posts. The petition asks the election be declared void as legal votes cannot be separated from the illegal ones.

CO-OPERATIVE COUNCIL FORMED BY FARMERS; PARRISH IS CHAIRMAN

Walter Brown Pledges Support of State Extension Service to New Group.

Walter S. Brown, acting director of the state agricultural extension service, in a speech here last night to the newly organized Georgia Co-operative Council, pledged them the support of his entire department.

"I am convinced the outlook for farmer co-operatives in the state is bright," he said.

Approximately 100 representatives from 36 farmers' co-operative organizations in the state met here, organized the council which will be composed of one member from each group co-operative, and elected J. J. Parrish, of Adel, chairman; P. J. Brown, of Albany, vice chairman, and C. G. Garner, of Athens, secretary-treasurer.

Parrish said the council would seek to promote legislation deemed wise for agriculture and co-operatives and oppose "inimical" legislation. The council, he said, would also assist in organizing new co-operatives.

2 U. S. PLANES READY TO BE SENT TO SPAIN

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two airplanes, purchased in the United States for the Spanish Socialist government, were crated and moved to a Vera Cruz dock today presumably for shipment to Spain.

A last-minute order from the communications department halted movement of four other planes.

The two crated ships, the communications department declared, were under Mexican registry.

Purchaser Missing In Abandoned Mine

FLEMINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Searchers groped through an abandoned coal mine tonight hunting 38-year-old Robert Johnson, who entered the mine 24 hours ago with two others but failed to emerge.

Johnson leased the operation, intending to work it, and last night entered with Buddy Cleaver, 16, and an unidentified neighbor, to determine water conditions.

Cleaver said he and the man left the mine without difficulty, supposing Johnson followed. They said they last saw him about the 800-foot level.

CONVICTION OF MOONEY UPHELD IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 28.—(AP)—A. E. Shaw, special referee of California's supreme court, held today that Thomas J. Mooney was fairly convicted of the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing here.

In his special findings of fact filed with the supreme court today, Shaw ruled with the attorney general's office that Mooney was not entitled to release on habeas corpus from prison. Mooney has served 20 years of a life term for the bombing, in which 10 persons were killed and 50 injured.

Robert Taylor Is Ill With Flu on Train

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Robert Taylor, latest "great lover" of the screen, is stricken with influenza aboard a train en route to Washington to attend the President's ball, it was learned here tonight.

Taylor and Jean Harlow left two days ago for New York.

BUILDINGS' COLLAPSE FEARED IN LOUISVILLE

Health Officials Estimate Death Toll in Blue Grass City at 250.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28.—(UP)—Tons of flood water which have eaten at basement foundations for four days threatened several of Louisville's business buildings with collapse tonight.

It was a new and unexpected calamity to a city grimly contesting the after-effects of the worst flood in its history, just beginning to subside. At least 162 persons were known to have died, mostly of diseases borne by the tainted torrents which run across 30 of the city's 40 square miles. Health officials estimated 250 were dead.

Private Robert T. Mueller, of Troop A of the first mechanized cavalry from Fort Knox, member of the federal flood relief forces, and Patrolman Lawrence W. Claycomb, of Louisville, were drowned tonight when an army combat car went out of control and plunged into the flood waters of Beargrass creek.

Electric lights were restored to one residential section of Louisville—the Highlands—tonight for the first time since the power went off Sunday night. It was expected other parts of the city might soon get lighting facilities again.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Examiners of the Federal Communications Commission recommended today the American Broadcast Corporation's license at Albany, Ga., be renewed. They disapproved the application of H. Wimp, Albany, for a construction permit to construct a new station.

Atlanta Passes Two-Third Mark In Red Cross Flood Collections

More Than $30,000 Needed to Complete City's Quota; Workers Urged To Increase Efforts and Citizens Asked To Increase Gifts.

With $80,061.12 checked into Red Cross coffers for Atlanta and Fulton county at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an urgent appeal for immediate contributions was issued by Phil C. McDuffie, general campaign chairman.

"The National Red Cross at Washington is calling for quick funds... the need is urgent... and while Atlanta is responding magnificently it is going to take continued efforts to raise our $100,000 quota. We ask all volunteer workers to increase their activities and all individuals, firms and organizations to send in their contributions just as promptly as possible."

Employees of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mill late yesterday turned in a contribution of $1,719.60, while workers in the Rogers stores sent in $878, supplemented by a $250 check from the company. Southern railway employees, through H. C. Yancey, contributed $913.50 yesterday, with at least $2,000 additional reported to come.

Last night the Red Cross held its annual dinner and election, starting at 6:30 o'clock at the Piedmont hotel. Governor Rivers, McDuffie and others spoke.

Atlanta clubwomen, who are taking an active part in solicitation of funds, have had a new telephone installed at Red Cross headquarters for their operations under the direction of the federation committee, headed by Mrs. W. F. Dykes and Mrs. John D. Evans.

On the screen will be the "Village Idiot." The cast includes Walter Kelly, Johnny Downs, Marsha Hunt, Stepin Fetchit and Robert Cummings. Also shown will be a Popeye cartoon, a Buster West comedy and newscasts.

At the Atlanta theater a return engagement of "The Drunkard" will be given Sunday, starting at 8:30 o'clock. The entire proceeds will go to the Red Cross. All members of the cast and technical staff have offered their services without remuneration. As an additional attraction members of the Atlanta Federal Theater Company will appear in entree specialty numbers. The WPA symphony orchestra will furnish the music under the direction of Walter Sheats.

STATE GUARD BUREAU HAS $147,287 DEFICIT, AUDIT REPORT SHOWS

Bulk of Indebtedness Is Due State Highway Department.

Georgia's Military Department, as of January 12, 1937, had a deficit for current accounts of $2,972.50 and a deficit for funds due the State Highway Department of $144,314.98, it was revealed yesterday in a report submitted to Governor Rivers by State Auditor Tom Wisdom.

The balance sheet shows the total cash assets of the department were $4, against which there are liabilities of $797.30 for bank overdrafts, $2,179.20 for current accounts unpaid and $144,314.98 due the State Highway Department for funds transferred by executive orders, in the years 1934, 1935 and 1936, to the credit of the State Military Department.

The report stated: "As a matter of comparison, the State Military Department prior to its self-expansion expended $21,857.06 for regular maintenance and $20,002.40 for aid to military organizations over the state.

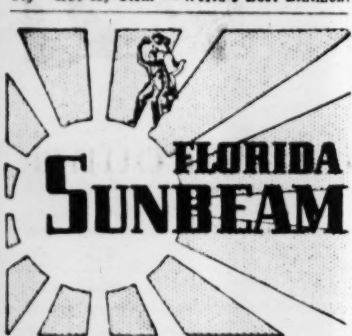

"In the year 1936, the department expenses for the purposes totaled $111,926.22." Of the above total, items listed included: regular maintenance, $27,807.33; aid to military organizations, $200; state treasury guards, $13,512.09; tornado service, $10,339.31; guard at President's home, Warm Springs, $1,622; riot duty, $1,027.53; Governor's office, $6,672.35; state truck detachment, $23,670.11; and construction of garage and equipment, $18,145.50.

The report also stated "there should be installed by the State Military Department an accounting control over the disposition of the bulk purchases of food and especially the bulk purchases of gasoline and oil consumed at the truck detachment."

'Old Curiosity Shop' Bows to Progress

"The Old Curiosity Shop," at 86 Auburn avenue, long occupied by Mike Fox as a shop for novelties and antiques, is to be torn away to make room for a parking lot.

The old building, erected immediately after the war, is owned by C. J. Sheehan, bought 25 years ago. For 25 years Fox, a bachelor ex-sailor, who died a year or so ago, made this his home and his place of business. He numbered his friends among the social leaders of the city, many of them being patrons of his antique place.

The successor of Fox has been conducting the old shop for a year or so, but surrendered the keys a few days ago for lack of patronage, and the owner has decided to raze the building to make room for parking purposes.

The Georgia Rural Improvement Association began definite operations for the assistance of rural communities in organizing groups for securing farm electrification at a meeting of the board of directors, held Wednesday at the association headquarters, 101 building.

A resolution was adopted asking the Georgia commissioner of agriculture to designate an official from his organization to co-operate.

Arrangements were made, through the activities of Mrs. George T. Stallings, director of Hadlock, for a community meeting to be held at Grays, February 9, under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club.

Field men from the association will be sent, upon request, and at no cost to the community groups, to assist in perfecting plans to meet the federal requirements for loans for the construction of electric lines, the wiring of farm residences and other farm buildings and the purchase of electrical and plumbing equipment.

Groups desiring assistance should address Willis J. Davis, secretary, room 900, 101 building, Atlanta.

CHAIN STORE TAX HEARINGS TO END

House Committee Votes Motion to Conclude Public Testimony Wednesday.

The house ways and means committee passed a motion late yesterday to conclude all public hearings on the pending chain store tax bill by next Wednesday.

The bill, proposed by Harris and Lister, of Richmond county, provides a graduated tax up to $500 for each store in any chain.

After concluding hearings Wednesday, the motion yesterday provided, the committee will go into executive session to act on the bill.

A sterilization bill, providing for operations on inmates of insane and penal institutions under special circumstances, came from the house committee on hygiene and sanitation with favorable recommendation late yesterday.

The Richmond delegation sponsored the measure referred to a subcommittee for further study a bill providing for regulation of the "basic sciences of the healing arts."

It would limit practice of the "healing arts" to graduates of recognized medical colleges.

'OUSTING' ERASED

Rivers Signs Hamilton and Harrison Restoration Bill.

Governor Rivers signed the first legislative act of his term yesterday to restore State Treasurer George B. Hamilton and Comptroller General William R. Harrison to office as of the date of their suspension by former Governor Eugene Talmadge.

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to do this," Rivers said as he signed the two resolutions passed by the house and senate to restore the men to office.

They were ousted last February 24 when they refused to permit Talmadge to withdraw funds from the treasury in absence of an appropriations bill.

A bill which would restore their salaries to them was reported favorably in the house today.

Mr. Wellborn, who was 79 years old, died Wednesday at New Orleans after being stricken with a heart attack. Church services were held yesterday at New Orleans.

A brother of M. B. Wellborn, former governor of the Federal Reserve Bank here, he had lived with Mr. Wellborn for the past 10 years at Maxwell, Ala.

He was prominent in the establishment of several of the first fire insurance companies to locate in the south and had been in the insurance business both in Atlanta and New Orleans. His death in New Orleans occurred while he was visiting another brother, Alfred Wellborn.

SOUTH IS MOBILIZED TO AVERT DISASTER IN MISSISSIPPI AREAS

All-Time High Waters Will Provide Test to Costly Levee System.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Record flood waters sweeping down the Mississippi valley find the south mobilized as never before to avert disaster.

Even the experts disagree on how high the Mississippi will go in its relentless surge to the gulf, but on every hand there is a feeling that whatever emergencies may arise, agencies of state, government and cities will be ready to meet it.

Throughout the country traversed by the big river—the soil along the river is as rich in productivity as any in the world—the United States army, the engineers, national guardsmen, the Red Cross and private citizens are ready for a fight to hold levees, save lives.

The all-time high waters will provide a test for the billion-dollar levee system. There is no disagreement on that. Engineers recognize they have a fight on their hands. But few, if any, believe the levees, as a whole, will not withstand the siege.

People Reassured.

The army's announcement of its mobilization for the possible evacuation of as many as 500,000 residents living within 50 miles of both sides of the river from Cairo to New Orleans was not intended to spread panic.

Rather, it was intended to assure the southland that come what may, every precaution has been taken to prevent unnecessary loss of life and property damage.

The men who know the river expect no contingency will arise that will require the evacuation of a half million people behind the bulkhead of levees.

Mobilization is just another indication of the extent to which the nation is prepared in the event of an emergency.

The army couldn't wait for an emergency to develop to order its mobilization. That would be too late. When evacuation is necessary, it must come immediately.

55-Foot Stage Forecast.

Army engineers, hearing the burden of the fight, have forecast a stage of 55 feet at Memphis on their gauge. The Memphis Weather Bureau sees a

Miami Mayor Saves Guest From Ocean

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Miami's five-foot mayor, A. D. H. Fossey, saved a fishing guest from being swept away by the current of the ocean.

Caught off-balance by a wave, John R. Rice, 36, a Miami insurance agent, toppled from the top of Mayor Fossey's cabin cruiser.

Fossey, fishing from the cockpit, first became aware of Rice's plight when Rice was carried past the stern by the current. The mayor plunged in and pulled Rice to the shore.

Rice was carried to a hospital where his condition tonight was said by physicians to be "fairly good."

Right or wrong, they have many thousands of men raising and strengthening the flood defenses. The critical points just now are at Melwood, Ark., below Helena, where breaks would flood much farmland; at the Hickman, Ky.-Tiptonville, Tenn. sector; at New Madrid, Mo., and smaller points.

One Levee Sacrificed.

It must be borne in mind that only one levee has been sacrificed—the Bird's Point-New Madrid, Mo., floodway "fuse plug"—and that for the purpose it was intended, to flood the 131,000-acre spillway, thus lowering the gauge at Cairo, Ill. The dynamiting of this levee held the Ohio stationary at Cairo for several days, and relieved much of the pressure on that city's levee.

The problem of caring for the refugees is the biggest so far. Relief workers are hurrying 50,000 into Memphis, a high and dry city of approximately 275,000 people. Problems of health and sanitation are being met systematically. The need for money to care for them for an indefinite period and send them home when the waters subside is great.

Most of them have come, and most of the others will come, from Mississippi lowlands outside the levee system, and from the tributary streams. In all the valley, no large city has been threatened. Engineers feel the inundated territory will be restricted to small towns and farm lands.

CINCINNATIANS MOVE TO REHABILITATE CITY

Reconstruction Work Handicapped By Lack of Adequate Water Supply.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The salted Ohio river crept back toward its banks tonight, allowing Cincinnati to concentrate on its problems of public health and the giant task of restoring what the flood swept away.

The lack of an adequate water supply still handicapped reconstruction work.

Ten million gallons of water flowed through city mains daily from industrial and suburban sources, but it was woefully short of the 55,000,000 gallons Cincinnati normally consumes every 24 hours.

By newspaper, radio, printed signs and by word of mouth, the residents were warned continually that all water must be boiled for drinking. Some homes lacked water for even the most elemental purposes of sanitation.

The red specter of potential fire still hung menacingly over the city. A fireboat with a 500-gallon-a-minute capacity arrived by truck from Prospect, Ohio, and was assigned immediately to duty in the bottoms. A smaller boat was on route from Lima, Ohio, and special trains and trucks rushed in hundreds of chemical pumps and supplies.

Ten thousand units of typhoid vaccine reached Cincinnati from the State Health Department at Columbus and work of immunizing flood victims began at once.

City Manager C. A. Dyke announced that beginning tomorrow the water would be released into the main from reservoirs only once a day, from 6 to 7 p. m. Only about 60,000,000 gallons remained in the two reservoirs. Tank wagons will be sent into dry areas tomorrow with water for sanitary purposes.

Red Cross headquarters estimated that at least 15,878 homes and buildings were under water in Cincinnati and its three northern Kentucky suburbs, Newport, Covington and Dayton.

DEATH FOR KIDNAPERS.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Idaho legislature today decreed death for ransom kidnapers who injure their victims.

ENGINEERS EXPECTING LEVEES TO STAND UP

Disaster Expected to Force 200,000 or More on Relief Rolls.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two hundred thousand persons—perhaps more if the Mississippi levees do not hold—may go on federal relief in the wake of the present flood.

A flexible plan to meet an extra relief load of 50,000 cases of destitution already has been outlined. An average of four persons is expected to be involved in each case.

General Main Craig, army chief of the staff, reported to President Roosevelt that army engineers expect the dikes to take care of "all expected water heights."

The War Department went ahead, however, with precautionary preparations to evacuate 500,000 persons, if necessary, from Mississippi lowlands.

Crisis Sunday.

"It things hold at Cairo—and we think they will now—and other rivers emptying farther down stream do not flood abnormally, we still believe that everything will be all right on the Mississippi. Otherwise there will be plenty of trouble," Craig said. He said the crisis probably would be reached Sunday at Cairo, Ill.

The army's preparations included arrangements for quick mobilization of railroad freight cars, automobiles and trucks.

Officials said the Red Cross was caring for 806,576 victims and estimated 200,000 more were being cared for by relatives and friends.

Walter Moxom, of the weather bureau, reported the worst of the flood over in the Ohio valley, except at Evansville. He added, however, the situation must be watched closely for two months.

Danger of Rain.

"There is always the danger that, with the rivers already swollen, a heavy rain would bring acute flood dangers," Moxom said.

Harry L. Hopkins, the works progress administrator, declared:

"Refugees must not be allowed to go back to their homes until the public health service pronounces the situation satisfactory."

The Red Cross reported $2,831,361 had been contributed toward the $10,000,000 relief fund it is seeking.

Representatives of railroads in the southeast will meet tomorrow at Birmingham, Ala., to survey transportation needs in the event of a large scale evacuation of the regions along the Mississippi. The Association of American Railroads announced the meeting tonight.

Approximately 5,000 freight cars now are concentrated in the southeast. Additional cars will be ordered from northern railroads if required. Officials said 540 were passing through Washington tonight for use in moving approximately 350,000 bales of cotton from threatened areas.

OHIO EASES PRESSURE IN ITS UPPER REGIONS

inches of frozen sleet. The reservoir filled rapidly, bringing the levee crisis near.

All but 110 who lived in the spillway were thought safely out. These clung to roof and tree tops and waited rescue boats, hampered by ice cakes, cold rain, and shallow water in stretches of ground between them and the refugees.

Three thousand refugees were at Charleston, Mo., where facilities were taxed to the utmost. Others were at Sikeston, Mo., crowded and jammed into relief headquarters.

These—as at New Madrid, Mo., at the lower tip of the floodway—cast anxious eyes toward the set-back levee. A levee break would put New Madrid under six feet of water.

Army Engineers on Job.

Army engineers along the Mississippi speeded reinforcement of the billion-dollar levee system. Commanding general from Cairo to New Orleans stood ready to move out upward of 500,000 dwellers if broken dikes brought danger.

Metropolitan F. W. Brist, at Memphis, predicted the Mississippi will crest there at 48 feet, five feet lower than the estimate of Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Heybold, army district engineer. Brist said the since a 48-foot stage "is about three feet higher than any previous stage, all possible precaution should be taken to protect life and property." Memphis gauge was 44.3 Thursday. The river was still rising.

More than 2,500,000 acres of Mississippi bottom land was flooded and Melwood, Ark., the levee was threatening collapse, endangering two more counties.

Threat of Disease.

The threat of disease continued unabated. Except for a coast guard report of influenza epidemic in evacuees at Paducah, Ky., no widespread outbreaks were prevalent.

While the army was prepared for any emergency along the Mississippi, Major General Main Craig, its chief of staff, said any general evacuation was a remote possibility. Removal operations, it was explained, were more likely to be confined to small low-lying sections.

At the far southern New Orleans tip of the river, engineers said water could be diverted into Lake Pontchartrain.

General Craig reported to President Roosevelt that army engineers believed Mississippi dikes would handle the flood "all expected water heights."

Enough typhoid vaccine to immunize 1,000,000 persons had been shipped into the flood area. Dr. Thomas Darran Jr., surgeon general of the United States public health service, said:

"The Ohio, from Pittsburgh to Martin's Ferry, Ohio, had dropped below flood stage for the first time since last Friday at Portsmouth. It receded so rapidly that some concern was expressed lest suction from the waters cause further damage."

VETS OF CONFEDERACY TO MEET IN MISSISSIPPI

PETERSBURG, Va., Jan. 28.—(AP)—General Homer Atkinson, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, accepted today the official invitation to hold the 1937 Confederate reunion in Jackson, Miss.

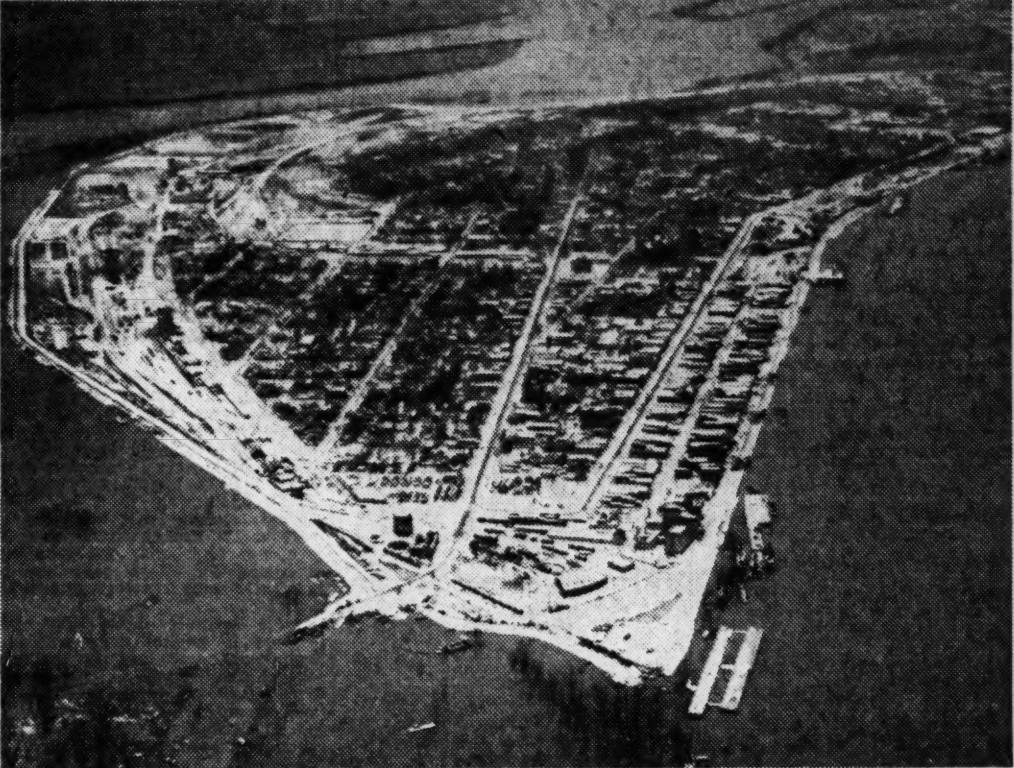

Dates for the reunion have been set for June 9, 10, 11 and 12 with headquarters at the R. E. Lee hotel.

The invitation was signed by Governor Hugh White, Homer Stottell, lieutenant governor, Walter A. Scott, mayor, M. T. Brumby, state commander, Mrs. M. L. Batson, president of the U. D. C., and others.

F. H. A. EXTENSION URGED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—A senate banking subcommittee recommended today extension until June 30, 1939, of the government's guarantee of Federal Housing Administration debentures. That is the same date set for expiration of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's lending powers.

City Is Hemmed in By Mississippi and Ohio Rivers

The precarious location, during high water, of Cairo, Ill., a city of 15,000, is strikingly illustrated in this aerial photograph. On the right is the Ohio, not nearly to the top of a 60-foot seawall protecting the city; on the left is the Mississippi, not now flooded. Women and children are being evacuated.

Compact, efficient machinery of the fourth corps area idled yesterday on two fronts when, 30 hours before deadline officers completed their flood relief plan and water began its great test, the actual operation of evacuation and relief in the flood-threatened Mississippi valley.

On the third front, in Tennessee, the plan was in complete operation, working smoothly, with the situation well in hand.

It was revealed yesterday that preparations are being made at Memphis for the first time since the 1917 flood, when 60,000 residents of the city who will be homeless if the river reaches the height estimated by army engineers. This will be in addition to the influx expected from the western bank of the river in Arkansas.

A refugee camp is being prepared by the Red Cross at the Tri-State Fair Grounds, used for the same purpose during the 1927 flood. In addition to other agencies co-operating, the entire personnel and facilities of the southern territory of the Salvation Army were offered General Moxom yesterday by Lieutenant Commissioner E. I. Fugimire, chief of the southern territory.

The area embraces 15 states and extends from the District of Columbia west through West Virginia, as far west as Arkansas and Texas and south throughout the south.

Dr. T. F. Abernethy, director of the State Health Department, announced four department engineers would be sent immediately to flooded areas of the Ohio and Mississippi.

He said these men are being sent in response to a call from Dr. Thomas Darran Jr., surgeon general of the United States public health service, for experts on water supplies.

Heavy shipments of supplies and equipment have been made to the Tennessee city for refugee use.

A person well-known was incorporated in the preparations with adjutant general of the several states in full accord. No large concentration of refugees at any point along the "Father of Waters" will be permitted and by that token, no epidemics of diseases and pestilence.

Army, Prepared for Flood Crisis, Sees 60,000 Victims at Memphis

Cities on high ground will be allowed to absorb refugees only to the extent of 25 per cent of their population and CCC camp refugee housing will be limited to 100 per cent of the camp personnel, or 200 persons.

Strict orders were given to make sure that when refugees camp reach the limit set others will not be provided for in the same camp but that new camps will be built to avoid any danger of contagion in event of disease. No refugee camp housing more than 1,000 persons will be permitted except "as a last resort."

The primary mission of the army is evacuation, and adjutant general of the states are to prepare plans for relief in their respective states, utilizing Red Cross facilities and state resources available.

Coordinating this work are the officers sent from the fourth corps area headquarters, one at Nashville, Tennessee, and that part of Kentucky west of the Cumberland river; another at Jackson, Miss., in charge of the central sector, and another at New Orleans, in charge of the southern sector.

Evacuation Under Way.

North of Memphis in the flood area under supervision of the fourth corps commander, the evacuation and relief plan was in full operation. Two abandoned CCC camps 100 miles east of Memphis will be used in addition to refugees and others will be filled as the need arises.

High commendation came for the CCC camp commanders and personnel in Tennessee for their energetic work in keeping the situation well in hand. In addition to these officers, Captain Harry L. Vitthum has been sent to Memphis, where 40 radio operators, 30 from Fort Bragg, N. C., and 10 from Fort Benning, will operate under his command. Radio sets with ranges of 50 to 100 miles and more of 25 miles have been shipped and will be in service in addition to a larger set now in operation for communication with Fort McPherson and Major General George Van Horn.

Refugee Asks Milk For Forgotten Cat

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Here is an example of the flood urgencies that occupy Dr. James S. Johnson, in charge of an emergency housing bureau in Cairo.

Said the doctor:

"Mrs. Ed Hill, who left here earlier in the week, got me on long distance last night—with a request that I send a man out to her house right away with a quart of milk for her cat."

FLOODED PRISON YIELDS NO BODIES

Seven Convicts Are Believed To Have Escaped During Rioting.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Evacuation of 2,906 convicts from the flooded state prison here was completed without a fatality, an official announcement disclosed today.

All but seven, "at the most," prisoners, who were taken away almost overnight from the prison after three days and nights of rioting and fighting among themselves, have been accounted for. Warden James Hammond announced. Those seven, Hammond believes, escaped during the confusion attendant upon the flood that forced permanent abandonment of the 135-year-old prison. Four of them, Hammond announced, already have been traced down.

A final and thorough inspection of the debris-strewn prison buildings today failed to reveal any bodies or any signs of anyone having been killed.

Governor A. B. Chandler personally directed the inspection.

Newspapermen, who were given free and unhampered access to the prison even before final evacuation, themselves searched thoroughly through the debris in the prison yard and in all the prison buildings. They found no bodies. All they saw was almost unbelievable chaos.

U. S. ARMY ASSISTING REFUGEES IN ARKANSAS

28,000 Homeless Are Quarantined in Concentration Camps; Red Cross Busy.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—(AP)—The task of preparing for any eventuality on the Mississippi river went forward in workmanship fever in east Arkansas today, with regular army assistance.

Tented cities sprang up on highlands and ridges; trunk highways were cleared of ordinary traffic to give refugees and supply convoys right of way; those made homeless by tributary floods and those forced to leave threatened areas immediately adjacent to the main line Mississippi levees were settled in the concentration centers, perhaps for a protracted stay.

Smaller rivers of the state which burst their banks more than a week ago, sending floods over 14 east Arkansas counties, recorded falling stages but the released waters continued to move southward, covering farms and towns in the lowlands.

An American Red Cross estimate released at Washington placed the number of Arkansas residents affected by the flood situation at 74,961.

"How did I do it?"
"I just reasoned sensibly."

Fortunately, straight thinking told me that vitality and pep were produced by energy created from within... so was the skin beautified and made clear from within. I found the famous S.S. MOTOR FIRM SEEKING ORDER FOR REMOVAL OF FORMER EMPLOYEES

Murphy Denies 'Anti-Strikers' Protection To and From Work.

DETROIT, Jan. 28.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation, referring to "sit-down" strikers occupying two Fisher Body Company plants in Flint, Mich., as "former employees" renewed tonight its efforts to eject them by court action.

A petition filed with Circuit Judge Paul V. Gadola, of Genesee county, by Roy Brownell, Flint attorney for the corporation, requested an injunction prohibiting the strikers from further possession of the plants. The United Automobile Workers of America was directed to show cause at a hearing at 2 p. m. next Monday why an injunction should not be granted.

Governor Frank Murphy declined to answer an alliance demand that he guarantee "full protection" for all workers to and from their jobs.

The injunction petition, filed by Flint named Homer Martin, U. A. W. A. president, and 29 other persons, including officers of the international union, its executive board, and officers of two Flint locals. It referred to Martin as a "professional organizer" who never has been in the employ of General Motors.

'G-MEN' WILL PROBE STRIKE BREAKERS CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The government assigned "G-men" tonight to investigate union leaders' charges that strike-breakers were sent across state lines to the scene of a General Motors strike at Anderson, Ind.

Observers declared that under federal law it was an offense to transport strike-breakers from one state to another for the purpose of interfering with peaceful picketing.

The senate civil liberties committee, headed by Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, also sent an agent to Anderson to inquire into the allegations of the United Automobile Workers that workers in two General Motors plants at Anderson were victims of violence. The Guide Lamp plant of the corporation is involved in a strike, while the Delco-Remy division is shut down because of labor trouble elsewhere.

In the meantime, Secretary Perkins continued her efforts to settle the strike by mediators. She said she had been in national General Motors President Sloan Jr., General Motors president.

POSTMASTERSHIP BILL IS VOTED AFTER FIGHT

As I know the gentleman from Oklahoma (Nichols) does not, then you will be against this bill," Representative Ramspeck declared. This measure puts all your postmasters in the same position as your fourth-class postmasters who already enjoy the benefits of civil service. It is taken almost for granted that the President's executive order of last year calling for competitive examinations in the postal service.

Bill Explained.
He said the bill was designed to make permanent (with modifications) an order issued by President Roosevelt last July. That order stood only at the will of the chief executive. Any successor could change it.

The bill would permit postmasters now serving to serve until their four-year terms of office expire. After that they might be reappointed if they passed a non-competitive examination.

Under the old patronage system, the President appointed postmasters for four-year terms from the three highest candidates recommended by the Civil Service Commission after competitive examination. Senate confirmation was required.

Under the new system, the postmaster general would make appointments from a similar list. Senate confirmation would not be required. Sponsors of the bill said this provision would eliminate political pressure from the senate. Appointees would be permitted to serve until they reached the retirement age if their record was satisfactory.

He added that clock and other postal workers, through examination, would be placed on classified lists and would become eligible for postmasterships in the event of a vacancy.

While he was examining the various provisions of the measure on the floor, Mr. Ramspeck was closely questioned by Democrats and Republicans alike. In making general answer to all his questions, he said that passage would bring real efficiency to the postal service.

Representative Edith Rogers, Republican, of Massachusetts, who was in charge of the opposition to the measure, regretted that she could not go along with the gentleman from Georgia, one of the most efficient chairmen of either house.

Vinson Involved.
Shortly after debate started, Congressman Rogers yielded five minutes to the gentleman from Georgia, Mr. Vinson, who was not then present on the floor. Later she again yielded to Mr. Vinson, who was recorded as absent for the second time. Mr. Rogers must be in error, because Congressman Vinson is for my bill.

It has been estimated by the post-office department that passage of the bill would affect some 13,750 first, second, and third-class postmasters throughout the country.

Mrs. Ramspeck and her daughter occupied a front seat in the members' gallery during debate on the bill.

The Georgia congressman gave no quarter to his Democratic opposition, insisting that a bill good enough for the President of the United States as good enough for him.

FORECAST FOR TODAY IS RAIN AND COOLER

Rain and a 35-degree mercury will be Atlanta's outlook for today, but with clear, cold weather expected within 36 hours, the weather bureau announced last night.

The precipitation yesterday, although heavy at times, totaled only .27 of an inch from 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Conditions along the Chattahoochee river were reported normal and no high waters expected.

Yesterday the temperature started at 35 degrees and mounted to 41 degrees in the late afternoon.

Sunshine Browning Steps in Old Style

DUNN, N. C., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Clarence B. Hood, the former Dorothy (Sunshine) Browning, and heiress to the Edward W. Browning millions was an initiate today in the old-fashioned square dance.

She and her husband, a laundry owner here, attended a square dance here last night, and Mrs. Hood immediately began swinging her partner to the tune of hill-billy music.

It was the Hoods' first appearance in the town's social life since the birth of their daughter, Patricia Lane, in July.

HEAD OF TEXTILE FIRM, W. D. ANDERSON JR., DIES

at the age of 12 when he began operation of a one-man retail sausage business. The cost of a city business license, which he considered beyond his means, brought an end to the sausage business, but he earned enough money to purchase his first stock in the Bibb Manufacturing Company.

Following graduation from the university where he was a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity and the Gridiron Club, Anderson began work as a machinist in one of the Bibb mills.

Later he attended the Philadelphia Textile school, and after several years working and studying manufacturing methods in mills of other sections of the country.

Worked in East.
About that time, the Bibb Company began the manufacture of auto tire fabric, a position he held until he came to the Bibb Company, where he worked as a manual builder and later as tire builder. During his time in the east, Mr. Anderson taught himself how to play basketball at the Y. M. C. A.

He returned here in 1925 and began to travel for the company, later being made assistant in sales.

More than six years ago he was made a vice president and was placed in charge of sales, a position he held until his father resigned last March and the board of directors elected him president of the corporation, with the senior Anderson becoming chairman of the board of directors.

The young head of the $20,000,000 corporation was active in religious circles, as a steward in the Vineville Methodist church, a trustee of the Methodist Orphanage here and a member of the Y. M. C. A.

Although young for his executive responsibilities, Mr. Anderson was a veteran in military affairs, in which he had devoted his life, and was familiar with the operation and status of each of the four mills in Macon, the three in Porterdale, one at Reynolds and one at Columbus. One of the mills here, at No. 2, was used in converting waste materials from the other mills.

It was his lifelong ambition to head the mills which his father had guided for many years.

At 36 years of age Mr. Anderson headed one of the largest textile manufacturing concerns in this country, employing 6,000 persons in nine mills, with 32,000 stockholders as investors.

Anderson was a steward in the Vineville Methodist church, a trustee of the Y. M. C. A. activities and a trustee of the Methodist Orphanage. W. D. Anderson Sr., his father, entered the employ of the Bibb Company 38 years ago.

STATE DEMANDS DEATH FOR 17 IN SOVIET PLOT

Vishinsky shouted out his demand for death for all 17 in the case. For two minutes the crowded courtroom applauded.

The law demands, in case of proof of guilt, hanging, which can be commuted only in case of "extenuating circumstances," the prosecutor declared.

"I am not alone in accusing them of these base crimes. There are the victims—the people who were killed and maimed in wrecks you planned—who stand here with me."

The dead stand here with me, pointing at you with their terrible hands, demanding with me and my country only one punishment—death by shooting."

Testimony by the defendants, who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy and treason, recounted hundreds of train wrecks in which more than 60 persons were killed—part of the plan for sabotage the defendants said they counted upon to aid their cause.

"I accuse the defendants of having organized in 1933 a parallel Trotskyist center for forcible overthrow of the Soviet government with the aid of foreign mercenaries."

Accuses Plotters.
"I accuse Gregory Pitlikoff (former assistant commissar for heavy industry), Gregory Sokolnikov (former ambassador to London) and Radek (former Trotskyist negotiator with Fascist aggressors). (The exiled Lenin Trotsky, from Mexico City, vigorously denied any connection with the alleged conspiracy.)"

"I accuse the center of carrying out wrecking with great damage in the Soviet state. I accuse them of high treason, espionage, sabotage and the organization of criminal forces."

"I accuse all the others of the same crimes. The basic crime was high treason."

Vishinsky said the state charges Trotsky inspired and directed the terrorism and wrecking plotting; that this was proved by admissions of guilt by the defendants and by documents including a letter allegedly written by Trotsky with an "infamous appeal" to remove Josef Stalin in 1932.

Reads Bulletin.
He read from a "bulletin of opposition" which said a program of "active" sabotage was the Trotskyists' objective. Pausing, he attributed authorship of the article to Trotsky and remarked:

"Trotsky says it would be childish to think Stalin can be removed constitutionally. That article definitely shows terror was the method for removal of the present Soviet government."

The defendants will be given an opportunity for "final words" tomorrow and Saturday, after which the judges will take the case. Their verdict is expected 12 or 15 hours later.

At the trial drew to an end, reliable reports said, Pitlikoff's wife was arrested and admitted knowledge of the conspiracy before her husband concluded. In some quarters, belief was expressed her detention may have been a contributory factor to the former commissar's confession.

There was no further elaboration of the charges against the second son, Sergei Sedoff, was arrested at Krasnoyarsk. Officials refused to give the report or to comment on it.

Elks' National Leader Fulton Tower Guest

BENEVOLENCE LAuded IN SPEECH BY SHOLTZ

Atlanta Elks Hear Exalted Ruler Talk of Charity Work By Order.

Constitution Staff photo—Slayton.

It is difficult to associate such a word as "luncheon" with the fare at Fulton Tower, but that is exactly what Grand Exalted Ruler Dave Sholtz, of the Elks, had when he was a guest of the county commissioners yesterday at noon. Other notables were there. The picture shows, left to right, Sholtz, George B. Hamilton, state treasurer, and Frank M. Robertson, exalted ruler of the Atlanta Elks.

Unrestricted Sales of Wine, Beer Rapped by Fulton Criminal Judge

Indiscriminate sale of beer and wine at all hours of the day, including Sundays, permitted under the present Georgia law, is one of the "worst evils" the legislature ever made, Judge Jesse Wood, of Fulton criminal court, declared from the bench yesterday in passing sentence on a taproom operator charged with selling beer to minors.

The law, by merely restricting beer being sold within a 200-yard radius of a school, created a desire among operators to operate as close to them as possible, the judge charged.

"The number of cases in this court," he continued, "shows that enforcement officers are having considerable trouble in preserving good order, on account of this law. The city only recently made some sort of effort to bring the sales within the bounds of reason, but outside the city conditions are still mighty bad. The beer law only says you may not sell to minors or within a certain distance of a school or church. Those are the only restrictive measures I know it to provide."

Selling legal beer to minors is as great a mistake as a man can make, the judge told T. R. Mullinax, operator of a Bankhead avenue tap room, found guilty of selling beer to two minors, as he sentenced him to pay a $50 fine or serve six months on the chain gang. Mullinax also was found guilty of operating punch boards and sentenced to pay another $50 fine or serve six months.

County commissioners have announced they will consider banning Sunday beer and wine sales in Fulton county at the Wednesday meeting of the commission. An unofficial poll of the commissioners reveals a majority of them favor banning the Sunday sales.

C. D. Herren, operator of Herren's cafe on Luckie street, entered a guilty plea on charges of possessing liquor and was fined $250, which he immediately paid. City police found 32 pints and 22 quarts of whisky in the cafe.

R. W. Stain was fined $35 by Judge Wood for operating a punch board, and Jerry Valass was fined $50 on the same charge.

A total of 72 cases were tried in Fulton criminal court yesterday by Judge Wood and A. L. Etheridge, the latter of municipal court. Eighty-five cases are on the calendar today.

Four more scattered deaths were reported.

way board, said he acted in conjunction with Board Member Jim L. Gillis in mapping out the division changes. Both Miller and Gillis are appointees of Governor Brown.

Miller said personnel for the various divisions would not be announced at present. A division engineer and two assistants—one in charge of maintenance and one of construction—in addition to clerical help will be placed in each office.

Cities where the divisions are to be located will furnish quarters, water and lights without cost to the highway board, Miller said.

This change conforms in a general way to the wishes of the (federal) Bureau of Public Roads, as the bureau has contended that proper supervision could not be given construction projects with only three division offices as has been during the Talmadge regime," the board's announcement said.

"The headquarters and division lines were established after a lengthy Benevolent and protective qualities of the Elks of America were driven home to members of the Atlanta lodge last night as no more meaningless names for the organization when Grand Exalted Ruler Dave Sholtz, former governor of Florida, visited the Elks' home on Peachtree street.

Atlanta's Elks jammed the building and microphones carried Ruler Sholtz's message to other rooms where great numbers were assembled, unable to crowd into the lodge hall.

"We should have 100,000 new members by July 1, when I surrender this office," Sholtz told the Elks, "those 100,000 members will help us carry on the fine charitable work we have been supporting for years and to expand our efforts to relieve the distress of our less fortunate neighbors."

As an instance of the Elks' quick response to public distress, Ruler Sholtz announced that, in the name of the organization, he had wired $5,000 in relief funds in the flood areas of the country and that the Elks' clubs of the country will contribute more than $50,000 to the flood funds. He referred to a check for $50 he was given yesterday by the newly established Decatur lodge of Elks as their share toward the flood relief.

Sholtz spent the day in Atlanta yesterday, speaking during the afternoon at the convention of the Georgia Hotel Association on "State Advertising" and being guest at a dinner at the Atlanta Elks' home at 6:30 p. m. This dinner was followed by the meeting and reception at which the grand exalted ruler met and talked with the members. A buffet supper followed.

At 12:30 o'clock yesterday Sholtz was guest at a luncheon at Fulton county headquarters, where the Fulton county commission. The former governor was introduced by John S. McCalland, vice chairman of the grand trustees of the order. He spoke on the need for democracy to sit steady and to resist steadily efforts to develop Communism in the United States.

Among those attending the luncheon were Frank M. Robertson, exalted ruler of Atlanta Lodge No. 78; L. H. Threadgill, exalted ruler of new Decatur lodge No. 100; Charles Bruce, district deputy; J. Bush, past district deputy; Frank R. Flinn, secretary to the Fulton county commission; George B. Hamilton, treasurer of the state of Georgia; Jim L. Gillis, member of the state highway board, and Jake Hall, sheriff of DeKalb county.

State road patrol was advocated in house.

Drivers' License Law Also Approved by Highways Committee No. 2.

A bill to establish a state highway patrol and license drivers, sponsored by Representative Clement E. Sutton, of Wilkes county, and 30 other legislators, was read a second time in the house last night in the house of representatives by the public highways committee No. 2.

The committee, after a public hearing on four proposed bills, chose Sutton's plan for the state patrol with only one dissenting vote.

The bill will be sent to the house today for a vote, and it is expected that it will be passed by the house.

The committee voted to adverse the remaining three bills, which were introduced by Representatives Cochran and Edwards, of Thomas county; Elliott and Leonard, of Muscogee, and Freeman, of Bibb county. Cochran and Edwards withdrew their bill from consideration in favor of the Sutton bill.

Speakers discussed the bills by Sutton and others and the one by the two Muscogee representatives. Among those appearing were Major General George Van Horn Moseley, of the fourth corps area; W. A. Abernethy, of Athens; Ben R. Stroup, of the National Safety Council; Robert McLeary, of the Atlanta Motor Club; and John Johnson, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, and L. P. Whitfield, of the American Bankers' Association.

The Sutton bill was amended by the measure to insure prohibiting the use of the state highway patrolmen in labor difficulties, and upon recommendation of the DeKalb delegation, to require all county police officers or sheriffs to provide fingerprinting services at a cost of not more than $10.

The measure would require physical examination for issuance of drivers' licenses, and mandatory education for violation of laws. It proposes to operate the first year with 80 men at a cost of $450,000 to be raised by license fees which will be paid into the state treasury.

Constitutional officers would act as a board of commissioners and officers in the department would be appointed for three-year terms. Sutton said every effort to "keep the department out of politics" had been made. M. G. Pounds, of Hancock county, was chairman of the committee.

SENTENCED IN SLAYING

LIMBERTON, N. C., Jan. 28.—Emory F. Stone, 32-year-old farmer, was sentenced today to 10 years to day for manslaughter in the death of his wife, found fatally injured beside a highway.

State board of education would change membership from six to 11, the members being the Governor and one representative from each of the 10 congressional districts.

Before getting to the school bill yesterday the house received for the first time a measure to create "five coastal counties" from the five coastal counties, and to create a state tide-water board to administer regulations affecting the sea-food industry. Principally, the act separates the five counties entirely from control of the state game and fish department, and was designed to boost the commercial fishing industry. Most of the representation from the affected counties signed the bill.

Another measure, proposed by Gross, of Stephens county, would create a board of beauty culture examiners to regulate the beauty parlor industry and license all persons working as beauticians. License fees would be $5 for residents, and $50 for non-residents.

The special appropriations committee reported favorably on restoration of salaries to Treasurer George R. Harrison for the time they were under suspension last year.

HUNTINGTON OPENS WAR UPON LOOTERS

Legion Aids Police; One Man Dead, Victim of Beating by Robbers.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 28.—(AP)—American Legionnaires, in boats at every strategic point along the Huntington waterfront, backed up overworked police tonight in their attempt to break up looting in this flood-swept city.

The recession of Huntington's worst flood brought an increase in thievery, police reported, despite efforts to control it.

Charles B. Vose, 47-year-old businessman, died of a fractured skull this morning. Police said robbers beat him Monday night near his home.

The city became apprehensive as a cold rain started falling, but engineers doubted it would stop the recession of the water, which now covers most of Huntington.

Dr. J. S. Klump, Red Cross medical director, said no epidemics threatened.

Point Pleasant, cut off for three days, today established limited telephone communication for the first time since Monday.

The river dropped eight inches today from a crest of 67.8 feet, more than 27 feet above actual flood level. Eighty per cent of the community at the junction of the Kanawha and Ohio remained under water.

Mrs. Carrie Eskew, one of the Huntington refugees who was taken to Charleston, died in a hospital of diphtheria, West Virginia's twelfth victim of the flood.

EVANSVILLE EXPECTS 53.5-FOOT FLOOD CREST

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Slowly recovering from the crest of high waters in its history, Evansville tonight awaited the crest of the Ohio river, believed near.

Officials expressed doubt the crest would reach the 53.5-foot height previously estimated.

Paul H. Schmidt, Vanderburgh county Red Cross chairman, and Phil E. Drachman, district flood disaster chairman, were rescued from the waters this afternoon in Evansville's residential district when a boat bearing them capsized 400 yards from land and threw them into about eight feet of water. They were picked up, exhausted, from the muddy water by a coast guard cutter.

This is below the "danger" stage for the river, but low sections were under water.

Men's Spring Hosiery Runs to Dusty Tones

Softer Shades Represent Reaction From Too-Garish Hues—Vertical Tartans Are Strong—Coronation Colors Appear

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD, Editor Men's Fashions.

Dusty tones—colors whose sharpness is toned down by a cloudy gray—constitute the outstanding style development in men's hosiery for spring, 1937. In contrast with the clear-cut, extremely bright coloring of recent seasons, these gray-scale shades offer a softer, warmer, more restrained effect. Color is there, in abundance—but not garish color, not color that is so brilliant as to attract every eye with each occasional flare of your trouser cuff that exposes it. It's the difference between the coloratura soprano and the soft-voiced husky-throated night club singers who soothe the tired business gentlemen of the nation.

Neckwear Patterns Still Are Good
The patterns in which these colors are used follow the trail of earlier seasons. The use, for instance, of neckwear patterns is not a new idea, but in these dusty tones the effect is totally novel and fresh. Such motifs as cross stripes, small all-over designs analogous to the Macleodfield and Spitalfields in ties, and tartans, both on the bias and vertical, the latter being preferred because of the added element of the length of the tie. In these vertical tartans there are many with white grounds, for sports-wear.

A smart tie is the miniature plaid, a very small tartan that gives solid-color effect from a distance and that of a neat design from close up. Along the same line is the very fine cross stripe, in two colors.

Red and Blue In Coronation Hues

In hosiery, as well as other fields of men's wear, the coronation of color is analogous to the Macleodfield and Spitalfields in ties, and tartans, both on the bias and vertical, the latter being preferred because of the added element of the length of the tie. In these vertical tartans there are many with white grounds, for sports-wear.

RULING DISPLAYS THEATRE POWERS
OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Federal government officials said today they considered the private council committee's ruling on Canadian social legislation as the first definite interpretation of the federal parliament's power to make treaties effective.

In effect, they pointed out, the committee declared the making of treaties was an executive act but the enactment of treaty provisions was a matter for provincial legislatures in Canada.

Validation of the natural products marketing act was considered of great importance. The measure, modeled on a British law, was intended to give tobacco, apple, potato and livestock farmers and others the right to combine in regulating production and marketing of their products.

The present government of Premier MacKenzie King, doubtful of the act's constitutionality, carried out such plans as were for the most part voluntary.

The farmers' creditors arrangement act, which was upheld, provides machinery under which a farmer, so deeply involved in debt that he cannot pay in full, may secure adjustments, with or without the consent of his creditors, to pare down the indebtedness or the interest rate or both.

It has been in effect two years. A total of 25,345 farmers had made applications under it up to January 1, and adjustments had been made for 17,084.

SWOLLEN TENNESSEE YIELDS TWO BODIES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Alabama's swollen rivers claimed two lives today as they labored to take seaward January's near record-breaking rainfall.

Backwaters of the Tennessee, near Guntersville, yielded the bodies of Mrs. Herman Roling, about 16, and an unidentified man, about 25, as searchers hunted through muddy lowlands for more than 12 hours.

The Tennessee stood at 25.5 feet here today, apparently at its crest.

Robert Fairchild, The Constitution's Editor of Men's Fashions, will bring another Fashion Column on Spring Wardrobe next Friday.

SPIRITUAL DEPRESSION EXCEEDED ECONOMIC, TIGERT TELLS 'Y' BODY

University of Florida President Pleads for Intelligent Youth Direction.

Heralds of recovery today point to the indices of the stock market and steel production but do not call attention to the fact there was a spiritual and moral depression deeper than the economic failure. Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, told members of the state Y. M. C. A. at their annual dinner last night.

"It is high time," Dr. Tigert said, "we began to think something about moral recovery. And I believe that, perhaps, we're on the verge of realizing this."

Pleading for intelligent direction of youth through the plastic years, Dr. Tigert declared that the influence of home ties had disappeared forever but that there should be substituted the influence of communities as wholesome as the old-fashioned homes. The community, he said, today is no larger than the home used to be, and can be made as wholesome.

Assails Film 'Weakness'

He attacked motion picture weaknesses, the incorporation in films of murder and crime scenes and methods, block booking and blind selling practices in the industry and in answer to declarations that elimination of selling practices would ruin the industry, he pointed to the example of Great Britain where, he said, they have been wiped out.

In advocating extension of the service of the Y. M. C. A. he charged that we "are living in an age when exploitation of youth has been raised to the nth degree." Scores of organizations each year seek to come on the campus of the University of Florida and other schools and organize students, he declared, and only two or three have not had some sinister or ulterior purpose.

This exploitation, he said, includes high schools and the unemployed of the country, numbering 5,200,000 persons.

Samuel C. Dobbs, Atlanta capitalist, re-elected chairman of the state Y. M. C. A. committee, bitterly scored state legislators in dealing with attempts to get the Bible taught in the high schools of the state. The legislators, he said, declared "no, you can't do it," he brings the state and church together.

Says Youth Slighted. Dobbs said, "to hope and count on counting rooms to our youth."

He pointed to the missionary work possible among the 100,000 school children of the state and urged the attention of the citizens on this problem before there is any necessity for attention to missionary work in foreign lands.

Abit Nix, of Athens, a member of the Y. M. C. A. executive committee, recounted activities of the group, stressing the value of the 145 Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs in the state and pointed out that more than 800 clubs could well be organized to further the work of the Y. M. C. A. in co-ordinating state agencies behind citizenship training and Christian character development programs.

Gordon Thompson, of Athens, president of the state Hi-Y organization, outlined aims and ideals of the group. Morgan Blake served as toastmaster.

Dobbs was re-elected chairman of the committee at a meeting yesterday morning. Other officers named were George S. Jones, of Macon, and Ely R. Callaway, of LaGrange, vice chairman; Harlow Branch Jr., of Atlanta, secretary; John W. Crenshaw, of Atlanta, treasurer; E. Clem Powers, of Atlanta, finance committee chairman; C. Baxter Jones, of Macon, extension committee chairman; and W. F. Cox, of Moultrie, southwest district committee chairman.

Members of the executive committee were during 1937 are: J. L. Bennett, W. F. Cox, George S. Jones, E. S. Smith, J. N. McEachern, Abit Nix, Columbus Roberts, E. A. Wheeler and Barry Wright.

Members said that the committee would seek $200,000 for the 1937 work. The budget for 1936 totaled $9,000.

Self-Energizing Operation ... gives greater stopping power ... with easier, softer operation of the brake pedal.

Cable-and-conduit Control ... gives sure, all-weather operation of brakes—the safety of steel from pedal to wheel.

Big 12-inch Rib-cooled Drums ... give extra large braking surface per pound of car weight, and long life for brake linings.

YOU CAN'T JUDGE BRAKES UNTIL YOU DRIVE

THE 1937 FORD V-8

As primary shoe "A" is applied against the moving brake drum, the drum helps to apply pressure on secondary shoe "B." As a result, about one third less pedal pressure is required of the driver.

Four of these brakes, with a total area of 186 sq. ins. give 1937 Ford V-8's greater braking surface per pound of car weight than any other 1937 American-built car. No wonder Ford V-8 brakes are called "Easy-Action Safety Brakes."

Authorized Ford Finance Plans $25 a month, after usual down payment, buys any model 1937 Ford V-8 car—from any Ford dealer—anywhere in the United States. Ask your Ford dealer about the easy payment plans of the Universal Credit Company.

Teach him the Clean, Gentle Way to clear mucus FROM STOPPED-UP NOSTRILS

The mucous membranes in his nostrils are extremely delicate. He may suffer lasting injury if he keeps on sniffing or tries to blow out the accumulated mucus by brute force. He will thank you later on if you teach him this much gentler and cleaner method to break up the mucus. Have him insert a little Mentholum in his nostrils. It is surprising how gently and quickly Mentholum breaks up accumulated mucus. The stuffiness is soon relieved, the breathing becomes free, and comfort is soon restored.

PINKERTON OPERATIVE IS LINKED TO SLUGGING

Toledo Detective Testifies at Senate Liberties Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Senator Thomas, Democrat, Utah, of the senate civil liberties committee, said today that the president of a striking union at Toledo, Ohio, was slugged about the same time that a Pinkerton operative suggested "elimination" of three strike leaders.

Earlier the committee had made public a report by a Pinkerton operative assigned to the strike at the Toledo closure plant of the Owens Illinois Glass Company in August, 1936.

The detective reported pickets were "getting tired of the whole business" and expressed belief that "if Shaw, Baum and Scholle could be eliminated and the company talked to the people that maintain the picket line, an agreement could be reached."

Ray L. Burnside, of Toledo, assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton Agency's Detroit office, told the committee the suggestion was a "mistake" and should have been removed from the report to the Owens Illinois Company.

He expressed belief the operative meant "elimination of these men from discussions" of a settlement.

Senator Thomas, acting committee chairman, demanded to know if "elimination" could mean "taking for a ride," but Burnside quickly denied this.

"We wouldn't take anybody for a ride," he said.

Previously the Pinkerton official had been singled out of the hearing room crowd by a labor witness as a man who had "hooked" him into the Pinkerton service as a spy.

Charles Rigby, of Toledo, chairman of the United Automobile Workers' grievance committee, testified he had been hired by Burnside, who, the witness said, represented himself as an investigator for NKA and used the alias R. L. Bronson.

Bank of France Hikes Rate To Help Franc

PARIS, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Bank of France boosted its discount rate today to check speculative borrowing and create confidence in the franc to further negotiation of a $250,000,000 loan from Great Britain.

Banks have created a heavy demand against the national currency, financiers said, by offering extensive collateral to the Bank of France for discount. To halt this, the discount rate was increased from 2 to 4 per cent—a 2 per cent rise in the cost of borrowing money.

NEW LEVEE BUILT

Tiptonville, Tenn., Watches Point Below Hickman.

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Anxious to prevent the Mississippi river from cutting a new channel one mile below Beattie, ten miles from Tiptonville, laborers continued today the construction of a sandbag levee.

If the Mississippi creates a new channel, it would isolate some 40 miles of land around Hotchkiss and New Madrid Bend. The water would not affect Tiptonville.

Tiptonville was still out of the water today. Near-by Ridgely was partially inundated by backwaters from the Mississippi.

Both towns are concerned with efforts to save the main line, 22-mile main Mississippi river levee at Hickman. Four miles below Hickman, a fight is under way to avoid crevasses which open the way for the flow of the river into Reelfoot lake. Such a development would destroy this so-called "sportsman's paradise," and isolate Tiptonville and Ridgely.

Bucket of Pennies Given to Red Cross

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 28.—Luther Hines, a fireman at the Iowa statehouse, walked into the Red Cross office here today with a heavy bucket in his hand.

"The clerk saw the pail was full of pennies," Hines instructed, "to help the flood sufferers."

There were 7,280 pennies. Hines took his bucket with him when he left.

"I'm going to start filling it up with pennies again," he said, adding he had started saving the coins several years ago just to be "saving."

WALLY HAILED 'QUEEN' BY 50,000 TRIBESMEN

Edward Proclaimed King by Maoris on Visit to New Zealand in 1920.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Queen Wallis Warfield Simpson was hailed today by 50,000 subjects as one of the world's most noble women.

The Maori tribes of New Zealand sent word to London that Queen Wallis has been their sovereign ever since the day Edward VIII fell in love with her.

If Edward renounced the throne and if he never marries her, the Polynesian tribes of the Pacific will keep her as their queen, a letter from "down under" informed the magazine Carnegie.

The Maoris, most of whom are polygamists, proclaimed Edward their king when he visited New Zealand in 1920 and under Maori tradition no loyal subject can question his king's choice of a life partner.

"An old Maori chief, or Ariki, said the fact that two apparently unworthy men had been rejected by Mrs. Simpson was no justification for those who sought to separate her from the most honored man in the world."

Well informed sources in London said that Princess Royal Mary and the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent will visit their brother, Edward, at Enzenfeld castle, Austria, soon.

The former king's furniture and personal belongings were moved from Buckingham palace today to Windsor castle for "indefinite storage." His belongings at Fort Belvedere were taken to Windsor a month ago. The articles included some belonging to Mrs. Simpson.

Mrs. Simpson is scheduled to receive her final decree April 27.

DUKE, WALLY EXPECTED TO HONEYMOON IN U. S.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(UP)—Edward, Duke of Windsor, and Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson may spend their honeymoon at Palm Beach, Fla., after their anticipated wedding late in April, the weekly "News Review" reported today.

Well informed sources in London said that Princess Royal Mary and the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent will visit their brother, Edward, at Enzenfeld castle, Austria, soon.

The former king's furniture and personal belongings were moved from Buckingham palace today to Windsor castle for "indefinite storage." His belongings at Fort Belvedere were taken to Windsor a month ago. The articles included some belonging to Mrs. Simpson.

Mrs. Simpson is scheduled to receive her final decree April 27.

Kentucky Club Gives To Flood Sufferers

Kentucky Club members held the annual book shower for the Home for Old Women on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. M. Ashby Jones on Avery drive, with Mrs. G. A. Park and Mrs. Edmund B. Hume as assistant hostesses.

The speaker was Mrs. Hugh B. Fleece, a cousin of the celebrated poet and author, James Lane Allen, who brought out interesting anecdotes and points of interest hitherto unknown about this great man.

The highlight was the rapidity and generosity with which the members came to the fore with a donation of more than $100 with other known gifts in sight, for the American Red Cross for the relief of the flood sufferers, not only in Kentucky but the entire inundated area. As the club was organized for social purposes only, this shows their true spirit when their fellowman is in distress and in need of concrete ministrations.

Mrs. Charles L. Tomlin, chairman of the Needlework Guild group, announced that a meeting would be held on February 5 at the home of Mrs. C. L. Williamson at 33 Fourteenth street, Northeast.

A benefit bridge party will be given next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edward Burnham Hume, at 1322 Piedmont avenue, N. E., for the purpose of purchasing material for the garments which are made for the guild proper.

Mrs. Camp Honors Recent Bride.

Mrs. Andriella Camp entertained Mrs. Rushard Shipp at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Payton avenue. Mrs. Camp was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Ruby Harrison.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents should write in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I grew up in a home where we spoke our minds, had big rows that didn't last long or leave any soreness. We all adored each other and understood each other. From that I came to this home where my husband and his family treat each other as if they were not human beings. If they disapprove of one another they aren't a word or a sign to show it. If my husband thinks his sister's new dress is hideous, he pretends that he admires it. I call it hypocrisy and they call it courtesy. I can't take it and that's all there is to it. I am fed up with their sham. Please tell me what to do. EILEEN.

Answer: Eileen, if you are going to live with your husband's family you will have to adopt their style of pretty talk, adjust yourself to living only what's agreeable to hear, and when you itch for a fight go home where papa and mama lion and all the little lions growl and go to it. Your husband and his clan can never be brought to see your manners as anything but rough and rude.

Note this: The members of a family that pride themselves on their politeness to one another may never own a rule word but they have their own private method of registered disapproval of one another. It is a sort of code which is closed to the outsider yet the one who is being disapproved understands. When your husband tells his sister that her husband dress is lovely, she isn't deceived any more than you would be by your brother's excessive praise. He is playing a continuous play-act in the family and no one of them ever steps out of his or her part. They are not hypocritical because each of them understands the game the other plays, and applauds it.

Broadly speaking, theirs is the better way because it trains them to step right out into life where courtesy is the open sesame, where it is a crime to be frank if frankness is unpleasant. You see most people have tender feelings which they are always trying to protect and they don't like to come up against folks that treat 'em rough.

It requires special education for the cradle up to the adult to fight and make up without receiving any permanent injury. Children that come out of homes where father and mother spoke their minds and said what they thought regardless of the consequences are conditioned to combat and life without it seems tame. But when these young warriors go out into the world they discover that other people can't take what they take and other people resent their frankness. Until they learn to walk softly, speak prettily, and practice politeness they are likely to be unpopular and unhappy.

Every girl that gets married makes invitations to her own family and that of her husband's family. She naturally thinks her mother and father had the right hand on things and even if she's wrong about it their way is her way. Well, she loved a man enough to leave her parents' home and she had better leave off the individual comparisons between the families, adjust herself to her husband's way of life and his thought as to how things should be lived. CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution)

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract bridge, "The Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

WINNERS AND SURE WINNERS.

The reader probably has noticed that in the case of nonvulnerable bids a minimum number of "winners" is specified, whereas when vulnerable they must be sure winners. The only difference between the winners and sure winners is in guarding against an abnormally bad division of the trump suit.

When not vulnerable, the expected trump suit should be valued optimistically on the basis of one long card winner for every card over three, which assumes a favorable break of the outstanding trumps.

When vulnerable, the intended trump suit is valued as any side suit, guarding against the danger that partner may not have any trump support and also against the danger that what trumps the opponents have will be divided unevenly.

Apart from the trump suit, the counts of winners is the same as explained earlier in this series.

Famous Women To Be Portrayed By Prominent Junior Leaguers

By Sally Forth.

WALLIS SIMPSON, the Baltimore woman for whom former King Edward renounced the throne; Barbara Hutton, the five-and-ten-store millionaire; and Doris Duke, the richest woman in the world, whose mother lived in Atlanta for many years, will be impersonated in a skit at the Junior League Folies by Louise Conklin, Barbara Hather and Elizabeth Hopkins, when the show opens this evening at the Erlanger theater.

Anne Hart Egan will cast aside her customary "presiding dignity" to preside over a humorous convention in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Herbert Hoover will be delightfully satirized in a sparkling comedy. Anne is the president of the Atlanta Junior League and is noted for her wit and humor.

Effie McGaughey and Carroll, her son, will represent two generations on the Folies program. Effie will tickle the risibles when she goes into the "Belles of the Nineties" number, done with Dorothy Harris, Gortez, Connelley and Margaret Wager. Shortly after Effie finishes her act, Carroll glides into the spotlight to do a graceful specialty dance with blond and lovely Pat Kilpatrick. He may be a fancier dancer than his mother, but she is much funnier in her interpretation of a belle of the "Gay Nineties."

A WELL-KNOWN and popular actress recently elevated to the highest post within the power of a great and "trustworthy" corporation, will play the leading role in a festive inaugural on February 3. The event is being planned as a tribute to the financial wizard by his comrades in the Fifty Club, and the ceremony will begin at the banker's home in Brookwood Hills.

Attired in Prince Alberts and high silk hats, all of the Fifty Clubbers will meet at the banker's residence next Wednesday to pay homage to their patterned member, in a manner patterned after that prescribed for President Roosevelt when he accepted the oath of office quite recently.

Four of his Fifty Club cronies wearing khaki uniforms will serve as the military escort when the president-banker appears on his front porch to deliver his inaugural address to his neighbors in Brookwood Hills. His Prince Albert and high silk hat will add just the amount of dignity necessary to fit the auspicious occasion.

His address will begin with "My F-r-a-n-d-s" spoken with the same intonation as does "F. D. R." when he speaks to his homelife in Dutchess county, New York.

A brass band will play inspiring tunes to heighten the enthusiasm of the spectators, who will cheer lustily and applaud the speaker at the psychological moments. When the banker concludes his friendly address, he and his Fifty Club contemporaries will enter 20 rickety automobiles of ancient and doubtful vintage to "chug chug" their way to the Piedmont Driving Club.

Here the makers of history will be joined by leaders in the business and banking world to listen to the formal acceptance speech of the recently elevated Fifty Club member. The pleasantly-anticipated affair will conclude with a dinner given for the popular president of whom the Fifty Club is justly proud.

THERE is an old saying in newspaperdom that if you want to keep a secret, tell it to a newspaperwoman. For that reason Sally Forth has cherished an outstanding secret for some time. It concerns a recent brilliant marriage. The bride and groom took their vows for the second time, six months prior to their marriage they had slipped away

Miss Catherine Garoni Becomes Bride of Arthur G. Barrett

The marriage of Miss Catherine Garoni, daughter of the late Mrs. Mary Garoni of this city, to Arthur G. Barrett, of Toledo, Ohio, was solemnized at the Immaculate Conception church Tuesday morning. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Joseph Smith, pastor, at the altar. The bride wore a modish suit of navy blue, trimmed at the neck with gray tulle. With this she wore a small hat of gray felt and her accessories were in gray. A note of sentiment was introduced in the prayer book carried by the bride, which has been a cherished possession in her family for many years. On her shoulder she wore a cluster of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Victoria Righini, who was attired in aquamarine crepe, with which she carried black accessories. Her flower girls were lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses. Roy De Marco, of Washington, D. C., was best man.

During the marriage ceremony and mass that followed, an appropriate musical program was rendered by W. S. Karst, organist.

Following the ceremony the bridal party was honored at a wedding breakfast at the Biltmore hotel, to which the immediate families and close friends were invited. Mr. Barrett and his bride left for a wedding trip to Miami and upon their return will reside in Nashville, Tenn.

The bride has been an active member of the Young People's Club and the choir of the Immaculate Conception church.

Red candles burning in silver holders and huge red hearts were the theme of the decorations. Valentine favors were given the young guests who were entertained with children's games and contests.

Bridal Couple Feted at Dinner

Miss Patsy Spalding and her fiancé, Morton Hodgson Jr., of Paris, France, whose marriage takes place Saturday were the central figures last evening at the informal dinner party given by Miss Mary Hurt at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt, on Ponce de Leon avenue.

The table in the dining room was beautifully appointed and was overlaid with a real lace cloth. In the center was a metal container placed on a mirror and filled with white freesia combined with fern, carrying a color motif of white and silver. On either side were metal candlesticks holding white burning tapers. Place cards carried out the bridal motif.

Mrs. Hillard Spalding, mother of the bride-elect, was hostess yesterday at an informal trousseau-tea at her home on Sheridan road honoring her daughter. No invitations were issued, but friends of the groom guest called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Shephard Feted During Visit Here

ODDS ON LOUIS
TUMBLE TO 3-1;
15,000 TO SEE GO

Pastor Confident He'll Whip Favored Bomber
Tonight.

By Alan Gould.
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Chiefly because of evidence that Joe Louis was "tagged" with a right hand, New York's latest heavyweight contender for the title, the curly-haired, rugged Bob Pastor, is conceding a long-shot chance by fight critics to upset the Brown Bomber tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

Attracted by this prospect, remote as it may be, cauliflower alley witnessed a mild flurry of wagers today that chopped the odds to 3 to 1 in favor of Louis.

Eight writers were nearly unanimous in picking Louis to win by a knockout in the early stages of the 10-round match. However, they were equally of the opinion that Pastor is no "set-up" but that his aggressiveness assures plenty of action as long as the bout lasts, and that the Dusky Dynamite no longer is the "sure thing" he seemed before being flattened by Max Baer last June.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED.
The fight will draw the winter's biggest crowd to the Garden but likely will fall short of the 19,000 capacity. The advance sale largely sold out today. However, at a top price of $10.50 for ring-side seats, Matchmaker James J. Johnston said $50,000 was in the cash box and predicted the "gate" would touch $100,000.

Pastor and Louis are the same age, 22, but the negro had had far greater experience as a headliner and possesses other advantages, including around 18 pounds in weight and a knockout wall-punch in either hand.

DEFEATED "IMP."
Pastor bowled over the giant, 238-pound Ray Impey in seven rounds in his last match. Like Louis, the ex-collegian is a product of amateur ranks, a former golden glove, who has developed rapidly since turning professional.

Since being whipped by Schmeling, the Detroit negro has registered five knockouts. All told this involved only 14 rounds of activity within the ring. Jack Sharkey, Al Ertre, Jorge Bescia, Eddie Simms and Stanley Ketchel have been the Bomber's comeback victims. He took only 26 seconds, including the final count, to dispose of Simms, who knocked Pastor down six times in a match fought a year ago last November.

The main bout, slated for 10 p. m., will be broadcast over WMCA.

Bulldogs Hope To Upset Jackets

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 28.—The University of Georgia's basketball squad tonight held the final hand drill of the week in preparation for the Tech Yellow Jackets Saturday night.

Except at the forward posts Coach Rex Enright is definitely decided on his starting lineup. He is debating whether to start Junior Lee Richards and Captain Charlie Harold or Sophomores Ralph Head and Earl Vandiver. Jack Farren, center, and Harman and Thompson, guards, are expected to open. The Red and Black outfit will go into the game determined to upset the Tech string.

The Bulldogs, comparatively speaking, have nothing to lose and all to gain. All of the Georgia men are ready to see action and it is possible that two or three newcomers who have shown up well this week may be utilized.

Thompson has shown unusual aptitude at hitting the basket. Farren and Harman are rounding into fine defensive form. Farren is also an offensive threat. Three successive victories, over Mercer, Clemson and Alabama, in that order, have served to put the squad on its feet.

Coach Clarence W. Jones and his University of Georgia boxing squad left tonight for Charleston, S. C., where the Bulldogs face The Citadel ring men Friday night. The Georgia team lost to Clemson College in the opener. Nine mittmen and Manager Chauncey Clark made the trip to Charleston.

BREAK O'DAY!

You may ask Nap Rucker about 1916—Ask the great left-handed pitcher—the one the late John McGraw said was the greatest left-handed pitcher the game ever knew—about 1916 and the epidemic of paralysis of that year.

That was the year a few cases developed in Brooklyn. That was where Nap Rucker was signed with the Brooklyn baseball club.

Suddenly Brooklyn began to hear terrible things. The few cases had become hundreds.

New York city discovered it had hundreds of them.
New York state discovered hundreds of cases. Suddenly, as if the dread mystery was some great fire, it had swept most of the Atlantic seaboard.

Ask Nap Rucker about it—ask him how the ambulances went through the streets almost constantly. Ask him about the white-lipped terror of those days.

You may read how railroads refused to sell tickets to children. You may read how houses were closed, how people fled from the state in wagons, in cars, by train—any way they could get away. They fled from the invisible terror as people now flee from the yellow flood waters that come lapping against their homes—rising slowly, surely, inexorably.

They thought then there was a magic age—that if one were just 16 years old or older, there would be no attack of this dread terror that came so quickly, without warning, without pain, and left destroyed nerve centers and paralyzed legs or arms or both. So they called it infantile paralysis.

Fear and terror stalked the streets and the roads of New York and the adjoining states that year.
Doctors called the disease, about which they knew nothing, poliomyelitis—which is from the Greek. It means an inflammation of the gray nerve cells of the spinal cord.

But the newspaper headlines, which chronicled the terror, called it "Infantile Paralysis."

The adults who had it never quite got into the news. At Roswell, Georgia, Nap Rucker and his family are working in the campaign which seeks to raise Georgia's quota of a national endowment for Warm Springs—so that all over the nation, under the direction of a board of outstanding physicians—the research work may go on in this fight.

Ask him about 1916 and this nation's first great epidemic which hurried him home from the baseball park each day—fearful—dreading this unseen and unknown thing.

SPEAKING OF VICTORIES.
"You write a lot about victories, don't you?"
We were at Warm Springs—
"What kind of victories?"
"Oh, football—baseball—basketball—prize fighting—you write about victories?"

"Yes."
"Look at that one there."
"Where?"

"There." And he nodded to where a young girl went laughing—rolling her wheel chair—to join another girl in another wheel chair.

"That," he said, "is one of the greatest victories I ever saw. There are lots of them like that."

"A victory?"
"Yes, a victory. Did you ever stop to think that to emerge from paralysis, to be able to sit and to roll a chair about is a great victory? A wheel chair is a great victory. Because from that there may be a day when that same girl will walk and achieve another victory."

It seemed plain enough, seeing the victory.
"You know what President Roosevelt said was his greatest victory?"
"This last one, at the polls?"

"No, it was the day when, after a year of trying, he was able to move his foot, to know he had beaten complete paralysis. That was his first victory. He had many more. He walks now."

He waited—and said—
"So, you see, there are lots of victories. Lots of great victories."

HIPPOCRATES KNEW IT.
It is a tremendous story—this one of the thing they call infantile paralysis—and yet which strikes old and young alike in about the same proportion.

You may see carvings on the tombs of old Egyptian kings in which there are depicted men with the shrunken legs typical of untreated cases of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis.

More than 1,500 years ago Hippocrates was writing about the drouths of summer and the heat and of the strange illnesses which came. There was one, he said, in which the patients had a little fever and then became paralyzed in their legs.

Patently, methodically, this man whom the modern

'Mister and Missus' Eubanks Is the Name

Robert (Lefty) Eubanks, captain of the Georgia Tech football team of 1935, and Miss Anne Hales, attractive Nashville girl, culminated a college romance of long standing when they were married on January 16 at Nashville, Tenn.-O-See. They met when Lefty was a sophomore and Tech was playing Vandy in Nashville. The newlyweds are shown above at home, 143 Clermont avenue, Decatur. See story below.

State Matmen Tech's 1935 Captain Clash at 'Y' Tonight

Wrestlers from all over Georgia are gathering in Atlanta today for the Georgia state open wrestling meet at the Y. M. C. A. on Luckie street tonight and Saturday night.

The cream of the crop from Moultrie, Cordele, Tech High, Young Harris College, West Georgia College, Augusta, Savannah, Rome, Columbus, Griffin, Newnan and Atlanta "Y" will furnish plenty of action in the preliminaries tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Atlanta's wrestlers will be defending their team championship and the majority of the individual state championships. The titles last year were taken mostly by the local "Y" and Tech High, with Columbus taking the only other crown as Fox, of Columbus, took the title from Pantello, of the "Y."

Indications are that the meet will be closer and more heated than last year. Teams have strengthened, with the local team being the only one to weaken during the year. Engler, Jones, David and Leichter—all four titleholders—have been lost and the heavyweight, 125-pound, 135-pound and 165-pound titles will all be undecided.

Pairings and weighing-in proceedings will take place at 6 o'clock tonight.

Sponsoring for Tech.
A couple of years later Eubanks was named captain of the Tech eleven, and Miss Hales was Captain Eubanks' sponsor when Tech and Georgia met.

Tech won. And so everything was wonderful. It was a great day for the Jacket captain, ending his playing career, and Miss Hales, his sponsor.

Eubanks entered the insurance business and the romance continued. A practical man is Lefty Eubanks. Although a tackle, he displayed a great deception in a broken field when Dan Cupid tried to nail him with his arrows during college days.

CUPID NAILS HIM.
Set up in business, as it were, he provided more of a target. And Dan Cupid finally nailed him less than two weeks ago.

The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hales, of Nashville. Eubanks entered Tech following graduation from Lanier High, Macon. He went on to become captain of a Tech team that knocked Duke out of a Rose Bowl bid and, otherwise, enjoyed a highly successful season.

Lefty Eubanks is in business here and he and his bride are at home to their friends at 143 Clermont avenue, Decatur.

STEVE BROWDY AND PONY MINSK STAR IN VICTORY

Return Game Is To Be Played February 10 at A. C.

By Roy White.
J. P. C. won its twenty-eighth straight amateur victory with a 44-to-29 decision over Warren's five Thursday night on the South Pryor Street court. It was the toughest game of the year for both teams and a renewal of the bitter finals of last year in the southern amateur tourney, which J. P. C. won by an eight-point margin.

A return game will be played Wednesday, February 10, and the Atlanta Athletic Club court has been selected for the second game.

Victor Moore Jr., all-Southern forward last year, playing guard for Warren sank the first field goal to give Warren a two-point lead, but the progressives settled down, took the lead and were never headed.

STEVE BEST.
Steve Browdy, lanky Progressive center, was outstanding in the game with 16 points. He rang the two pointers from various ranges and followed up many stray shots for field goals.

Pony Minsk was second to Browdy for the winners with 10 points in addition to playing the greatest defensive game on the floor.

Ed Copeland, former Oglethorpe star, with 10 points led the attack for Warren, with Moore, one point behind. Gabby Greenberg, all-Southern guard last year started the game at forward so that he could guard all of Moore's shots and scored seven points for the winners.

J. P. C.'s margin of victory was in its excellent marksmanship. The Progressives fired away 29 times at the basket in the first half and made eight field goals, while Warren made only three goals out of 23 tries.

In the second half Warren increased its percentage with six goals out of 25 tries, as J. P. C. made only seven out of 22 tries.

WARREN MISSES FOULS.
Inability to shoot foul goals consistently cost Warren several points as only nine were made out of 19 tries, while the Progressives made 14 fouls out of 18 tries, missing only four free attempts.

Both teams played rough basketball, with four players being chased for four personal fouls. M. Katz, Browdy and Greenberg, of J. P. C., and Tierce, of Warren, went out on fouls.

BASEBALL PLAYERS PRESENT.
Four Atlanta baseball players were on the battle scene, with Tierce playing a great game for Warren. Marshall Mauldin, Bobby Durham and Claude (Red) Eisman were on the sidelines pulling for their mates.

Bob Smith, Boston Bee hurler; Arthur McHenry, International league star, and Jim Bagby Jr., property of the Boston Red Sox, were other bangers.

Warren Reds beat J. P. C. Reds, 31 to 28, in a preliminary.

Gehrig, Ruppert Dicker Over Salary

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The New York American says tonight First Baseman Lou Gehrig and Owner Jake Ruppert, of the New York Yankees, conferred today over the slacker's 1937 salary figures, but that they failed to come even close to an agreement.

Gehrig drew $31,000 for 1935 and a similar sum last year. The Yankees want to put the same figure on his 1937 contract, but Lou demands $35,000.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Diana Lake, just returned to London, hears from Adrian Somerville, struggling young scientist, that he has inherited the fortune of his stepmother, Rose Walsh, ex-wife of his father, who was Diana's mother. Until shortly before her death, Adrian and she had been estranged. Diana's parents are both of the theater. Diana has always disliked him. Now that the lack of money no longer keeps them apart, Adrian and Diana plan to be married. Diana's mother is doubtful that Rose died a natural death, and Diana feels she is not too pleased about her engagement. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XI.

Lights were already glimmering through the haze when they turned into a broad cul-de-sac, the lower end of which was spanned by an opulent-looking brownstone mansion, with an imposing entrance guarded by twin bay trees. This was the modern house, built not twenty years ago by a fraudulent financier whose spectacular trial and conviction had filled the papers for a month. Blundell had bought the freehold at auction, turning it into three flats, of which the ground floor, one with absurdly large and lofty rooms, was occupied by himself. The top was left to advantage to a wealthy Spaniard, seldom at home; while in between Rose Somerville had lived, in smug luxury, alone with the servant who for half a lifetime had been her dresser.

Inside was a vast expanse of lounge hall or lobby, paneled in cedar, with hideous Sevres vases in niches, and gray carpet a full inch thick. It was all heavily magnificent, the sort of thing Aunt Rose had loved. The door to Blundell's flat lay on the left and just beyond rose a sweep of wide, shallow stairs. Diana mounted them and pushed the button beside a second, impressive door.

Diana rang repeatedly, but no answer came. Petty was not here, evidently. Did it mean that she was gone for good? Diana went to the street and rang the caretaker's bell. A young, plump woman in a green overall appeared, recognized her, and in tribute to her recent bereavement assumed a rueful expression. Pardon the mention of it, but had Miss Lake had any news? Diana shook her head.

"And to think," said the woman in hushed tones, "that only that same afternoon your poor mother and I were talking together!" She paused, overcome by the recollection. "Was it Mrs. Petty you were wanting, miss? She's up there, right enough. I've not seen her go out this day."

"She didn't answer the bell. Are you quite sure she's there?"

"Well—as sure as I can be. She might have popped out just now while I was in the scullery washing up. Suppose I just run up with you and make certain."

Mr. Blundell had a key, so the caretaker informed Diana with ill-concealed anxiety she hurried into the entrance hall. His chauffeur-butler would be in if he wasn't, for she'd seen him come in not ten minutes ago. Yes, Mr. Blundell often drove himself. For days at a time Mr. Gaylord wasn't wanted for the apartment.

As he spoke the caretaker rang the ground-floor bell, which was answered by a big, friendly-faced young man to whom she put a quick question.

"Mrs. Petty?" he repeated, respectfully acknowledging Diana's presence. "No, I've not seen her go out. Want the key? Here you are, then."

The door was opened. Diana was now feeling strongly apprehensive. With a tremor in her voice the caretaker called: "Mrs. Petty—are you there?"

Dead silence reigned. Gaylord switched on lights and the trio entered the drawing room, spotlessly clean and in order. It was a fine room, a little overfurnished in good antiques, the larger pieces now shrouded in dust sheets. The walls were painted a grayish rose, the thick curtains were of broad damask, delicate powder blue in color. Over the Adams mantel hung a big de Laszle portrait of Rose Walsh at the age of 40. The invaders took a brief survey and passed on. Gaylord leading the way and walking softly, his big feet sinking into the thick velvet carpet. The dining room next was green, dignified, with copies of old Chippendale, and ship paintings—also copies—on the walls; and now the late owner's bedroom, luxurious, effete. Diana shuddered at sight of the wide, low bed with gilded swans supporting a canopy of rose taffeta, glanced past it to the dressing table with its incredible array of engraved and painted bottles, and on to the Empire daybed, on which lay a rug of summer ermine, folded with the satin lining outside.

The kitchen and pantry were empty. So was the little boudoir-dressing room adjoining the pale green bath, and hung with quilted chintz.

"Here! Will you take a look at this?"

It was Gaylord calling, his tone astonished. Diana joined him, the caretaker close at her side. Together they took stock of the clean, cramped space with its cream striped wallpaper, white iron bed tidily covered with a coarse counterpane, deal chair, chest of drawers, and a washing more.

"Well," said the caretaker, "what about it?"

"Don't you see? She's taken her box—and that three cupboard's got her nothing in it. It's cleared off. I wonder if Mr. Blundell knows?"

They returned to the kitchen. The caretaker touched the electric cooker. "Kettle's warm," she announced. "So she's not been long gone. Now, where's she got to, and at her age?"

"Nephew in Peckham," declared Gaylord confidently. "Come and fetch her, I expect, on his motorcycle. You see, she's drawing her pension now and I heard Mr. Blundell say he was giving her a matter of two quid a week so she could go up to Sunderland where she come from—that is, if she was a mind—and not be a burden to her folks."

"Is he doing that?" murmured the woman, awed. "My word, but he's a good man and no mistake! But supposing she's wanted here?"

There was a self-conscious pause during which the two recalled Diana's presence. Gaylord cleared his throat.

"O, I expect she'll stick round London the old chance," she said discreetly. "Stands to reason she will, for all she's in such a rare state over being asked questions she can't answer."

Diana was eyeing the cheap alarm clock which ticked away on the dresser. Gaylord noted her swift glance at her watch and smiled.

"Don't be going by that clock, miss," he advised. "She kept it like that a-purpose, same as most cooks—don't ask me why. This one's five and twenty minutes fast."

Five and twenty minutes fast! Then it had been fast last Tuesday. Diana's heart stood still. Adrian could not have been here and still reached the tea shop by 5:30. In place of the ten minutes she had assumed he would have had over half an hour.

"Tell me," she addressed the waiting pair. "On the Tuesday my mother was here, did either of you see anyone go out from this flat? I don't mean Mr. Blundell. Was there anyone else?"

Their blank expressions told her that there was no deception. Both shook their heads, exchanging glances.

"And Petty's nephew—do you know his address?"

Gaylord had driven the old woman there once. The nephew lived above his shop, which was in a narrow turning off Peckham Rye. He traced a plan on the clean scrubbed table.

"Here's the High Street, miss. That will be the turning, by a chemist's. The right hand side it was, Name's Petty, same as here."

"Thanks so much. I'll try and run along there one day."

She picked up her gloves from the dresser and then stared hard at an object unnoticed till now. It was a clean, folded handkerchief—too good to be Petty's, too large and not fine enough to have belonged to Aunt Rose.

With a little laugh she caught it up and slipped it into her bag. "Mine," she murmured. "Waiting for me to claim it, I expect. Will you turn back the lights?"—and she quickly left the flat.

How did one get to Peckham Rye? A policeman advised her to take a train from Victoria, whither she hurried by taxi. Now she was alone, she struck a match and examined the handkerchief. It was a woman's, undoubtedly, and it bore in one corner some initials marked in indelible ink. She thought they were "G. and D." About to refold the square of linen again, she stopped and pressed it against her nose. It gave forth a ghost of a pungence at once familiar and distasteful. Some perfumes survive ordinary washing. It crossed her mind that within the week a blast of this same odor had hit her full in the face. The owner must have been drenched with it—and had in-hand with the thought came the recollection of Adrian's bitter observation about a negligence reeking of scent.

All at once, in her ear, she heard her mother's musing question: "By the way, did your Aunt Rose ever use chypre?"

Chypre! This was the stuff. The odor it had been in the kitchen when her mother went in.

Diana emerged from the Peckham Rye station in a thoroughfare noisy with trams, lorries and motorcycles, found the chemist's shop, and opening saw the sign: "G. Petty, Corn and Feed." She entered a dark, empty shop and rapped on the counter.

A glazed door opened and a youngish man dressed in a baggy brown suit and a clean but ill-fitting collar came out. She asked if he was G. Petty. He nodded and gave her a curious glance.

"I'm Miss Lake, and I'd like to speak to your aunt. I know she's here, because I've just seen her, in there."

G. Petty's expression subtly altered. "Right you are, miss. She's just having her tea."

He reopened the door and went through. She heard him say: "Now don't upset yourself, Ma. Nothing to hurt you. Ivy will just give an eye to the shop?"

A young woman with coarse, dark hair and a purple knitted jumper came out wiping her mouth.

Diana saw the nephew had no intention of allowing a tête-à-tête. When the old servant with a quivering smile he took his stand, awkward but stolid, near the small, red glowing stove.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

The man who fancies himself a cook can't be told a thing.

We hear that some husbands fancy themselves as cooks. And that when they do, they are often a great trial to their wives.

First they get out all the pots and pans in the kitchen and spread them out on every available ledge, including the windowsills and the radiator tops. Then they spend hours doing the Australian crawl through a sea of batter and egg whites and olive oil. No one (and certainly not a wife) can even say that the salt is on the right and the pepper on the left without getting an ear batten off.

And then a little of the whole agonizing procedure, this masculine cook expects to hear, throughout the meal, a running patter of compliments. He doesn't stop fishing for them until you've swallowed your last sip of coffee.

We certainly aren't trying to keep man out of the kitchen. But we don't think it's quite fair for him to enter our domain, on an apparently equal basis, and then try to get by on his masculinity that way. He'll have to learn, as women have learned through generations of meeting food in the raw, that a little temper control, a little orderliness and a little modesty, are all a part of a cook's technique.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

V—FROM U TO Z.

Now we come to the last six letters of our alphabet. These letters are not so much used as most of the other letters.

"U" goes back to the days of ancient Greece, and was called "upsilon." It was pronounced about the same as our "on" sound, as in the word "brute." The Greeks made the letter like a "Y" or "V." The Romans almost always wrote it as "V," but as time went on the letter was given the form of a "U" to set it aside from the "V."

"V" has had just about the same history as "U," but it has kept one of its ancient forms. It is used as a consonant, while "U" is a vowel.

Our letter "W" sounds like "double U," and it really was made late in the history of the alphabet from two "U's" or two "V's." The modern French alphabet does not have the letter "W," and neither does the Italian alphabet.

"X" is a far older letter than "W." It was known to the people of ancient Greece, and often was used for the "is" sound. At one time it had a name meaning "post."

"Y" might be called a brother of "V." In olden Greece it was called "upsilon," the same as "Y." Later the Romans gave it a separate place in their alphabet. In former times in England "Y" was used a great deal in place of "I." At present the chief value of "Y" is in certain words, as "you," "tell" or "yoke."

"Z" is the last letter in our alphabet, but it had seventh place in the old Greek alphabet. The Greeks called it "zeta." At an earlier time, the Phoenicians called this letter "zarin," meaning "dagger." The form kept changing as the centuries passed, and in Roman times it looked like the present-day "Z." In England it is the old custom to pronounce the name of the letter as "zed."

When we look at the letters of the alphabet, it is interesting to think that almost all of them were pictorial of certain objects at the beginning. The hands, the head, the eye, the teeth and the mouth are parts of the human body which were used as models for some of them. Others came from drawings of such things as a house, a door, a window, a dagger, a fish or the waves of the sea.

The people of many nations have helped to build the alphabet as we know it today. Egypt, Phoenicia, Palestine, Greece and Rome seem to have done most to give us the great gift.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

'You Only Live Once'
Starts Today at Grand

The most starkly human drama the screen has ever offered comes to Loew's Grand theater today when "You Only Live Once," Walter Wanger's first production for release through United Artists, begins a week's engagement with Sylvia Sydney and Henry Fonda, the screen sweethearts of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," reunited in the starring roles.

Dynamic conflict, thrilling action and searing romance are combined in this story of a woman who risked her very life to fight by the side of the man she loved when the whole world condemned him and hunted him like an animal in every corner of the earth.

A great supporting cast, headed by Barton MacLane, who incidentally has his first sympathetic role; Jean Dixon, on, William Gargan and the late Charles "Chic" Sale, and including Warren Hymer, Margaret Hamilton, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams, Jerome Cowan, John Wray and others, is seen in this spell-binding story of human emotions in the raw.

A Walt Disney Silly Symphony, "Don Donald," a M-G-M. tabloid, "Dancing on the Ceiling," and a double-length News of the Day complete the program which starts today at Loew's Grand.

'Black Legion' Drama
Thrills at Paramount

Lifted directly from the banner lines and news columns of the daily papers of a few weeks ago is the thrilling melodrama, "Black Legion," which comes to the Paramount theater today.

This Warner Brothers production was begun a few days after the press revealed that such a secret organization was operating in Michigan, and was concluded, according to studio officials, on the very day a Detroit judge sentenced the hooded order's officials to life imprisonment.

If it were purely a fictional story, it would have been an excellent movie. But containing, as it does, so many close parallels to the truth about the distasteful night riders, it has tremendous additional power as a social document.

"Black Legion" will probably take rank alongside that other Warner "spot news" film of several years ago, "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," which was one of the most successful pictures any studio ever turned out.

The story concerns a young automobile mechanic, played by Humphrey Bogart, who joins the Black Legion, purportedly a patriotic order—in a fit of bitterness over losing the foremanship of his shop to a foreign-born fellow worker. The legion, of course, is portrayed as a racket, enriching its promoters.

The young mechanic takes part in house-burnings, floggings, tortures—all vividly shown, and finally kills his best pal, Dick Foran. He loses his wife and child—Erin O'Brien-Moore and Dickie Jones—and has to stand trial for murder.

In a stirring courtroom scene, the deluded youth makes what reparation he can and justice closes in on the leaders of the fanatical legion, who have been stirring up racial and religious hatred.

Jan Comes Home Tonight

Jan Garber, former Atlantan who returns tonight, leading his famous dance and radio orchestra, to play for a dance at the Shrine Mosque.

ills by exercise, massage and welford contortions of the human body.

With added short subjects of the usual high caliber to be found at the Rialto theater, the three-week run of "More Than a Secretary" is, after all, not surprising.

Famous Stars at Fox
In 'Champagne Waltz'

Gay old Vienna is the background for songs by Gladys Swarthout, dancing by Velox and Yolanda, and comedy by Fred MacMurray and Jack Oakie in "Champagne Waltz," which comes to the Fox theater today.

"Champagne Waltz" is Miss Swarthout's third appearance in motion pictures. The beautiful lyric soprano voice of the famous Metropolitan opera diva has already captivated America and it is promised that the music especially written for her in this production will add fresh laurels to the crown she wears as the screen's queen of song. MacMurray, who was a band leader before he came to Hollywood, has a part in this production similar to the one he had in "A Princess Comes Across." He also plays the saxophone, on which he is a skilled performer.

Velox and Yolanda, recognized as America's leading interpreters of ballroom dancing, do several numbers in "Champagne Waltz." In the new swing tempo, Oakie plays the part of a go-get-'em publicity man who introduces American "swing" music to waltz-loving Vienna. This puts the famous old Waltz palace of the Strausses out of business. Miss Swarthout is the granddaughter of the owner. She loves MacMurray whose band does the "dirty work," and the romantic plot of "Champagne Waltz" is concerned with the way in which their love blooms in spite of this.

There are generous helpings of both the waltz and "swing" music in "Champagne Waltz," with particularly notable arrangements of Strauss' celebrated "Tales from the Vienna Woods" and "Blue Danube." The "swing" music includes the now historic "Hold That Tiger," the opus generally held responsible for the birth of "swing" both as music and dance form.

Others in the cast in addition to the leads are Herman Bing, Vivienne Osborne, Frank Forest, Benny Baker and Ernest Cossart. "Champagne Waltz" was directed by A. Edward Sutherland and dance numbers supervised by LeRoy Prinz.

'Let's Make a Million'
At Capitol on Sunday

"Charlie Chan at the Opera" starring Warner Oland and Boris Karloff, and "Studio Scandals" vaudeville revue, now playing at the Capitol theater, remain through Saturday.

Starting Sunday, the Capitol's new feature picture will be "Let's Make a Million," an hilarious comedy starring Edward Everett Horton, Charlotte Wynters, Porter Hall, Margaret Sedden and Margaret McWade. The last two named will be remembered as the "piliated" sisters in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

The story has to do with a war veteran who receives his bonus and the manner in which he goes about spending it. "Let's Make a Million" is said to be one of the finest films yet in the career of Edward Everett Horton. On the stage, starting Sunday, the Capitol will offer "Hollywood Holiday," a vaudeville revue with a cast of 25 stage and radio stars. The unit will feature Johnnie Dunn, comic; Spud Seal, variety entertainer; Mildred Perlee, dancer; Frank Hamilton, songs; Billy Thornton and Company, magical moments, and many others.

'More Than Secretary'
In Third Rialto Week

It's here for a third week. "More Than a Secretary" at the Rialto theater has drawn capacity houses so consistently during the two-week run that closed last night that manager W. T. Murray decided yesterday he can do nothing else than keep the feature comedy romance over for a third seven days.

This Columbia production, with Jean Arthur, Lionel Stander, George Brent and Ruth Donnelly, heading the cast, is the latest addition to that steadily growing list of box office hits.

The story deals with the secretary to the editor of a health magazine, a man who believes there is more virtue in a raw carrot than in a planked steak, more value in a uncooked turnip than in a seven-course dinner for epicures.

And Lionel Stander is perfect in his role of a physical culture expert, who believes he can cure all human

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.
 Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling, f. o. b., 13.65.

AVERAGE PRICE.
NEW ORLEANS. Jan. 27—(AP)—The average price of middling upland southern spot markets was 13.06 cents a pound; for the month to date 12.81 cents a pound.

here, touching $1.25 3/4 point, was off 1/2 cent from the high which it reached a month ago. It attracted some support to the market.

Chicago wheat futures closed 1-2 to 3 cents higher than Friday's finish, May 126 1/8-10 to 126 1/2-10; September 110-1 1/4, September 107 3/8-5; corn 118.2, cents down, May 106 7/8-10; July 101 1/2-5 to 101 3/4, September 96 5/8-1; soybeans 49 1/2-5 to 49 7/8, and ryegrass 107 1/2-3 to 104 setback, May 108 7/8-10; the outcome was 10 to 25 cents decline.

Early in the day active positions, particularly old crop options, were briskly bought and they moved up prices. March sold at 12.78, May at 2.64, July at 12.51 and October at 2.06.

But when longs started dumping the holdings in the second half of the day the decline slipped back. March finished at 12.73 and October dropped through the 12-cent level to one at 11.97.

The day's price movements were more a technical development than the effect of any outside influences. Longs who had been holding cotton Adding to the downward trend of prices here was the fact that the Liverpool market, due 7-8 to 1 1/2 cents lower, closed today at 2 to 3-8 cents overnight loss.

Reports that the maritime strike is nearing settlement, and pointing to enlarged imports of corn, did much to depress corn and oats. Rye paralleled wheat.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

Speaking of conservation, I think those who care to make such certain government activities will find that the homesteads under the Resettlement Administration are doing a good job in humankind. I have just received a report on the community project at Arthurdale, W. Va. which has been submitted to the President's committee for economic recovery.

The chairman of this committee, Mrs. A. S. Freed, succeeded in getting a special subcommittee composed of industrialists and professional men to examine with the experienced eyes of business the former commission, the present condition and the future necessities of this particular community, hoping to make their study useful, not only here, but in other parts of the country.

It is interesting to me that these men are willing to delve into the details of how business and government can co-operate in helping to organize a new, re-establish themselves through their own efforts. I have no words for the future. I hope many people will have an opportunity to read this report.

CITY, COUNTY AGREE ON $50,000 PURCHASE OF WHITE GOLF COURSE

Governments To Share Equally in Cost at Rate of $3,500 Per Year.

Purchase of the John A. White golf course for $50,000 over a 20-year period was agreed upon yesterday afternoon by city and county officials.

The county and the city will share equally in the expense of obtaining the park from Dr. O. E. Collum at the rate of $3,500 per year.

The major conditions of the purchase were outlined yesterday afternoon at a conference between County Commissioners George F. Longino, J. A. Ragsdale and Dr. Charles R. Adams and Mayor Hartsfield.

Details of the plan were referred to the city and county attorneys to work out immediately.

The city now owns three of the nine golf holes but the remainder and the $17,000 clubhouse are located on land owned by Dr. Collum.

County commissioners indicated Dr. Collum has agreed to the $50,000 extended purchase price. Previously Collum has asked $80,000 for the land in addition to $10,000 which the city had already paid in a previous attempt to buy the property.

Purchase of the John A. White park was one of the planks in Hartsfield's platform and has been urged frequently by grand juries and civic organizations. It is located just outside the city limits off Cascade road, beyond West End.

Negotiations to buy the property have been underway for a number of years but plans were blocked when Mayor Key refused to sanction the purchase at the price demanded.

Though it was expected the Collum land will be deeded to the city this year, payment of the $50,000 will not begin until 1938, it was said.

The golf course is now torn up in several places where sewer work is being done and is otherwise in need of repairs. For these reasons, it was considered unlikely efforts will be made to open the course during 1937.

A move to annex the park to the city of Atlanta has already been started within the Fulton county legislative delegation.

U. S. Check Puts OK On Housing Tenants

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP) The Public Works Administration checked up today to learn how it was doing as a landlord.

Completing a report of the Boulevard Gardens low-rent housing project, New York city, the WPA found:

That it collected all except $11.35 of the $477,714 rent due during last year from the Gardens' 1,000 tenants.

That it had a tenant turn-over of only one-tenth of 1 per cent.

That it had an iron-man recreation director who keeps 500 children from wrecking the lawns.

That it had to "ask" only five tenants to leave.

GOVERNOR 'HANDS OFF' ON TOBACCO CONTROL

Legislation Will Be Left Entirely to Assembly, Rivers Declares.

A "hands off" policy on tobacco production control legislation will be adopted by the present state administration, Governor Rivers announced yesterday.

Rivers made his announcement shortly after a committee from the Georgia-Florida Tobacco Growers' Association reported to him a recent poll among Georgia growers showed sentiment "about evenly divided."

"In view of the division of opinion among the growers as evidenced by the result of the mass meeting polls I am adopting a hands off policy on compact legislation and am leaving the matter entirely up to the general assembly," Rivers said.

A bill similar to the recently presented to farmers in the tobacco belt at county-wide meetings was introduced in the legislature Wednesday by Representative Dollar, of Grady county.

Combined Control.

It would enable Georgia to join with Virginia and Kentucky—which have already passed control legislation—at North and South Carolina and Tennessee in holding down production of flue cured tobacco. The validity of regulation would depend upon the agreement of all the states involved. Actual reduction and control would be with the consent of congress. A crop insurance feature would be included.

The committee visiting the Governor yesterday was composed of E. P. Bowen Jr., of Tifton; H. L. Wingate and J. D. Rogers, of Pelham, and J. B. McCall, of Jennings, Fla.

Accompanying them were Homer S. Durden, of Washington, senior economist of the AAA in charge of southern tobacco problems, and Acting Director Walter S. Brown, of the state agricultural extension service.

The committee reported about 2,000 to 3,500 growers voted in the poll, composing about 20 per cent of those in the state. The bill would provide that if 20 per cent of the growers object the control legislation would be repealed.

Committee Statement.

In a joint statement following the conference, the committee said: "We will issue a warning to farmers as to the dangers of over-production now imminent. We feel personally that this control legislation or some similar legislation is needed to hold down over-production this year."

"We have fulfilled our mission in these conferences with the Governor, the farmers and federal and state agricultural officials."

Brown said the agricultural extension service had fulfilled its mission in the matter by placing the proposed bill before the growers and conducting the polls.

Durden said there is "not any room for an increase in production this year and certainly not to the extent the growers have in mind." He said he sat in the conference purely in an advisory capacity.

"It is the feeling of the administration in Washington that a crop as large or larger than in 1936 would affect prices adversely," Durden added.

"Stocks of tobacco just about reached the saturation point and are built up to around the highest point in the history of the industry."

"While it is true domestic consumption has increased, this is more than offset by the unfavorable position the export trade is in. More than 50 per cent of the flue cured tobacco goes into export trade."

PALESTINE EDUCATOR SPEAKS TWICE HERE

A vivid picture of life in present-day Palestine, and an outline of what has been created there in the past 20 years, was given here last night by Dr. Ben Zion Mosensohn, Palestinian leader, speaking at the Standard Club.

Dr. Mosensohn, who is principal of Herzlia College, Tel-Aviv, has lived in Palestine for 30 years. He came to the United States last October and will speak again tonight at the Alhambra Achim synagogue.

He is the guest of Harold Hirsch, Dr. Mosensohn also touched, in his talk last night, on what Palestine means to world Jewry and why all Jews should be interested in the work going forward there.

Resident of Atlanta 50 Years Will Be Buried This Morning.

Ransome H. Comer, 75, widely known resident of Atlanta for more than 50 years, passed away suddenly Wednesday night at his home, 93 Tenth street, N. W.

He was born in Cleveland, Ga., and moved to Atlanta more than a half century ago. He was a member of the Battle Hill Masonic lodge and of the First Church of Christ, Scientist. For the past 15 years he had been employed in the credit department of the Atlanta Journal.

He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Lawrence A. Burdett, Mrs. E. K. Thompson and Mrs. Miriam Beer, all of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. T. H. Shelley, of Gainesville, Ga., and Mrs. Anna Quarles, of Seattle; a brother, Frank Comer, of Gainesville, and two grandchildren, Betty Thompson and Mary Katherine Beers.

Funeral services will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill, with Forrest C. Osgood officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Miller, yesterday reported an "apparent" shortage in farm labor there, and said a scarcity now means greater scarcity later when plowing, planting and other farm work must be done.

Bibb county agent, D. F. Bruce, said there is a scarcity of farm labor there, but it is greater in Monroe county.

In Richmond county, Bright McConnell, county agent, said farmers report labor scarcity, and that many former tenant farmers are seeking jobs qualifying for social security benefits.

County agents in Muscogee, Thomas and Colquitt counties reported either present shortages or said they expected a scarcity of farm labor later.
